Inhumane and Unethical Methods: Aerial shooting and lethal removal are cruel, indiscriminate, and cause unnecessary suffering to wildlife. History has shown these methods escalate quickly without proper oversight.

Threat to Ecosystem Balance: Wolves and bears play vital ecological roles by regulating prey populations. Removing these predators destabilizes ecosystems, threatening biodiversity and long-term environmental health.

Lack of Transparency and Oversight: Proposal 75 grants broad, unchecked powers to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game with no clear limits, oversight, or public accountability—setting the stage for widespread and indiscriminate killing.

Conservation and Economic Risks: Healthy predator populations are vital for Alaska's wilderness and tourism economy. Lethal predator control undermines these populations, harms conservation efforts, and threatens wildlife-based economic opportunities.

We write to strongly demand that this agency to address the entire issue of cruelty and torture, including the vehicular killing of wildlife, which you all failed to have considered. Such practices are NOT hunting or predator control—it is pure cruelty, sadism, and barbarity. .

As residents we write to strongly urge each of you to PROTECT our precious, iconic and ESSENTIAL WILDLIFE especially WOLVES at all costs. It is time to prioritize wildlife and co-exist with wolves as they are essential to our healthy ecosystem.

We note that wolves are also tourist cash cows for Alaska – wolves are why tourists visit our national parks and bring in huge revenues for our state! Your anti-wolf policies are killing our state’s cash cows. People want to see wolves alive and thriving in the wild.

Immediately make the following changes to our current predator hunting laws in our state.

- Remove over quota kills from next year's quota
- Eliminate snares on public land and require 24-hour trap checks
- Prohibit baiting and close wolf hunting in known units
- Prohibit the use of all motorized vehicles (e.g., snowmobiles, ATVs, helicopters, etc.) to hunt predators
- Prohibit use of night goggles and prohibit night hunting for the safety of people and predators
- Reduce wolf trapping season and close hunting units near national parks when quotas are met
- Use peer-reviewed methods for population estimates and increase transparency on trapping incidents involving other species

Have some decency, do your jobs and make real changes to our predator hunting laws now to PROTECT all wildlife!

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Proposal 75 in Unit 16, which aims to reduce the populations of brown bears, black bears, and wolves through aerial gunning. This proposal not only undermines the values of wildlife conservation but also threatens the significant economic benefits derived from wildlife viewing in our beautiful state.

Alaska is renowned for its stunning natural landscapes and diverse wildlife, which attract millions of visitors each year.

According to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, wildlife viewing generates approximately $2.5 billion annually for the state's economy. This figure highlights the importance of maintaining healthy populations of iconic species like bears and wolves, which are critical to the ecosystem and serve as a major draw for tourists.

Proposal 75: Add Department removal of wolves, brown bears, and black bears to Unit 16 Intensive Management Plan

I'm writing to oppose proposal 75 that would authorize the slaughter of apex predator animals like bears and wolves, through helicopter, snowmobile, and other methods and devices. The proposal suggests the elimination of up to 80% of wolves and 60% of brown bears across Unit 16, which borders the Denali and Lake Clark National Parks and Preserves, the last remaining pristine habitats for brown bears on our planet!

This approach is not only barbaric, but it is an utterly outdated and unscientific approach to wildlife management. Modern, science-based wildlife management emphasize the critical role of predators in maintaining balance and biodiversity. Wildlife have intrinsic worth and vital ecological roles that evolved over billions of years on this earth.

The approach of this proposal is a far cry from conservation. It is senselessly destructive. Even if once considers preserving game animals for hunters, this proposal still makes no sense, as there are ample studies showing that predators are not the major factor determining the population of game animals.

At some point, humans must evolve morally and intellectually enough to stop this destructive, short sighted, and senseless killing of wildlife before it's too late. Every decade sees massive reduction in biodiversity necessary to sustain our planet. Please stop and reconsider. Just stop, I beg you. Let them live. You have so much power and they have none. Why must you encroach and destroy what little remains for them in this world? Why must you kill them simply for existing? Is there not enough killing already in this world? It is ungodly to see so much bloodlust; such lack of compassion; such trivializing of the lives of others who have as much right to live on this earth as you do. Enough. Please, don't let this pass.

In fact a healthy predator population prevents the boom and bust cycle of ungulates as well as spreading of chronic diseases. The ADFG needs to decide who they are protecting, the animals and inhabitants in the area or setting forth these proposals for a larger political gain. It is clear that this proposal is not the right thing to do.

My name is Gabrielle and I am opposing Proposal 75.

There are many reasons I can list as to why I believe gunning down the wolves and bears should not be done. However, I wish to list the most vital one (in my opinion) for your consideration today.

Removing a high percent of predators in this ecosystem will cause a top-down trophic cascade. This causes other species in the food chain to either blow out of proportion due to less predatory control or decrease severely due to the numerical increase of their respective predator species. While this could occur at any point in the food chain, it will be the most severe with the removal of predators high up the chain. Although an increase of fish, moose, and others could be beneficial, it would also be detrimental to the populations of their prey species. The relationships created in the community will ultimately collapse.

With a new year, there will be many changes to the American government. A lot of these changes will not favor biodiversity and its conservation. While I understand there may be perks to reducing the number of predators, it will ultimately destroy the ecosystem present in this national park. Further, the use of firearms and helicopters will increase pollutants that will exceed outside the park's range. All in all, the mass removal of these key predatory species will result in an unintended ripple effect in many aspects.

Please keep our planet in mind as you discuss this proposal. It will be crucial to the survival of many species, including our own. Thank you for your time and consideration.

I have been a resident and a guide in Alaska since 1977. I own and operate both a Airtaxi and lodge bringing hundreds of tourists into Alaska every year. This brings about $3,000,000.00 into the Alaska economy every year. The killing of bears to artificially increase moose and caribou populations is ridiculous, a waste of taxpayer money and gives Alaska a bad reputation for wildlife management. I oppose Proposal 75. Such a significant reduction in the population of wolves, black bears, and brown bears would be harmful to the ecosystem at large. In addition, studies have shown that this does not majorly increase the moose population, and if this proposal has been enacted and un-enacted multiple times without much difference, wouldn't you question its effectiveness? Wolves are near-endangered. Moose are not. Different solutions should be focused on, such as combatting global warming so that all animals have a higher survival rate, and reducing the amount of hunting that can be done in general to return the Alaskan ecosystem to its natural state.

I visited Denali as a tourist - specifically to see wolves. I did not see any. Now I know why.

Studies have shown that this huge predator killing does not increase human moose harvest. This kind of predator control is outdated. Does it even work?

There needs to be scientific evaluation of any predator control operations on how they are impacting the ecosystem and population dynamics.

Proposal 75 is an absolute disgrace by the Alaska department of fish and game. The elimination of such a large number of predators is anything but "wildlife management". The idea that killing so many bears and wolves in order to increase the ungulate population is absurd. There are a long list of reasons as to why ungulate populations are falling due to increased human presence and conflicts, mining and interruption of natural resources, changes in weather patterns, various diseases and that's not to say predators don't play a part but eliminating them does more harm than good. The proposed area of elimination stretches from national park to national park in which both of them one of the primary drives of tourism is the hopes to see bears and wolves, by reducing numbers just outside the park so drastically you do nothing but hurt the outfitters operating within Denali national park and lake Clark national park economically. You reduce the desire to visit, you reduce the amount of people that will be employed and you reduce the amount of money raised from both personal and business taxes. This stretch of land borders numerous towns and settlements in which hunting is a huge way of life, my family included. I know of many people who hunt bear in hopes of filling their freezer, who pay good money for tags and who have made it a way of their life. That money spent on tags is one of the major contributing factors to wildlife conservation, if the desire is a reduction in numbers then it should be done through actual methods of conservation over a number of years by very slowly increasing hunting quotas not by taxpayer dollar through a helicopter where the reduction in populations can be so drastic that it has a rippling devastating effect on the ecosystem. This whole proposal is a lazy and costly attempt at wildlife conservation that will have devastating impacts for both my community and the ones surrounding us and I expect better out of a group of people who claim to love the natural world.

Alaska’s predator control programs — aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters — do not work to increase human moose harvest. A 2022 article by ADFG and University of Alaska Fairbanks biologists published in the scientific journal Diversity, found no increase in moose harvests in the years following nearly 40 years of predator control in Southcentral Alaska. Listen to an interview with the author here.

Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations, or identify causal relationships between predator control and prey population dynamics. Large carnivore management in Alaska should be based on rigorous science including the status and trends of carnivore populations - this program does not meet those standards. Read more in the 2019 article, Large carnivores under assault in Alaska, which was authored by three Alaska state and federal wildlife biologists.

The proposed aerial gunning program borders some of the most iconic wildlife viewing areas in the world. Predator control is not popular with the general public. The State's reputation as a responsible wildlife manager is rightfully beginning to sour after aerially gunning down nearly 200 bears in southwestern Alaska. Authorizing this program on such loose and un-studied biological grounds bruises Alaska's image and erodes public faith in the Board of Game to make sustainable decisions.

By ADFG's own admission: "Adoption of this proposal would result in significant costs to the department if department staff conduct control activities" (ADFG comments on Prop 75, Page 224). The Intensive Management program against bears and wolves a few hundred miles west cost $231,000 in 2022 and $612,000 in 2023 (page 14, 2024 annual report to Board of Game) Predator control as a whole has accounted for ~$2.5 million in lost federal funding, as Pitman Roberts funds cannot be used for Intensive management. At a time when ADFG has almost no funding for non-game programs and the State is struggling for cash, it is unwise to dedicate another quarter million dollars each year to predator control programs that have yet to be deemed effective.

If approved, this proposal would give ADFG full reign to implement an aerial gunning plan in Unit 16. Once a proposal like this is approved, ADFG has the authority to develop an Operational Plan for aerial gunning that is not open to public comment. This is the time to weigh in.

In reducing predator numbers via mass targeting to increase populations of ungulates, we ignore the potential alternatives that could have a greater economic, social, and environmental benefit. For example, regulating hunting tag numbers and providing opportunities to hunt/not to hunt, we can bring money into communities and put to good use the animals harvested instead of laying them to waste as though they too are not a living, valuable being. The balance between prey and predator is naturally regulated and fluctuating from a variety of factors, and it appears that reducing numbers as drastically as this proposal proposes would lead to an environmental deterioration from the top up. Opposition to Proposal 75

Predators, such as wolves and bears, are highly effective at naturally regulating their populations based on the carrying capacity of their habitats. Scientific evidence demonstrates that predators play a crucial role in improving the health of ungulate populations by preying on weaker individuals, thus strengthening the overall genetic pool. Additionally, they prevent overgrazing, which helps maintain vegetation and habitat health, ensuring the stability of ecosystems.

The removal of keystone species, like wolves, often leads to unintended ecological consequences. Their absence can destabilize ecosystems, undermining long-term conservation goals. Furthermore, predator removal has repeatedly been shown to be ineffective, as predator populations often rebound through increased reproduction and immigration into resource-rich areas that lack competition.

In the specific case of Unit 16, there is no compelling ecological or scientific reason to reduce the wolf population. This area serves as a vital wildlife corridor connecting two National Parks. Allowing wolves to thrive ensures genetic diversity and ecological integrity across this region. Wolves, as keystone species, enhance the health of the environments where they are native, contributing to richer biodiversity and more resilient ecosystems.

I urge the Alaska Board of Game to reject Proposal 75 and resist wildlife management strategies that lack a solid scientific foundation. The unnecessary killing of keystone predators undermines Alaska's ecological richness and the natural processes that sustain its wild landscapes. Protecting these species is not only an ecological imperative but also a reflection of Alaska's commitment to preserving its unique natural heritage.

As you know, the Alaska Department of Fish and Game is once again taking aim at wolves, brown bears, and black bears. Proposal 75 would let the department shoot and kill up to 80% of these iconic animals from roaring helicopters right on the borders of Denali and Lake Clark national parks. This is a heinous miscarriage of justice for these animals. It's their home and they deserve to live there without harassment from people.

Don't repeat past mistakes -- in 2023 and 2024, the department used aerial gunning to kill hundreds of bears and wolves in southwest Alaska despite widespread objections from scientists and the public who value these ecologically important carnivores. The science tells you that these predators need to be there for a balanced ecosystem.

If the proposal is adopted, it will expand aerial massacres right up to the doorsteps of Denali and Lake Clark. Besides being dangerous and cruel, these mass slaughters are downright unnecessary, as mass slaughters of keystone predators are detrimental to the greater Denali and Lake Clark ecosystems.

I strongly oppose Proposal 75. This proposal poses significant ecological, ethical, and cultural risks that outweigh any potential benefits.

Bears and wolves are keystone species critical to maintaining the balance of Alaska's ecosystems. These predators regulate prey populations, such as moose and caribou, preventing overgrazing and ensuring the health of vegetation and habitats. Reducing their populations could lead to severe ecological imbalances, harming not only wildlife but also the overall health of Alaska's environment.

Additionally, there is no clear scientific evidence to justify such drastic measures. Predator control programs often fail to deliver long-term benefits and instead destabilize ecosystems. Without solid data to support this proposal, it is irresponsible to move forward with actions that could have lasting negative consequences.

This proposal also raises serious ethical concerns. Bears and wolves are not pests but vital components of Alaska's natural heritage. The methods typically employed to reduce their numbers—such as aerial gunning and trapping—are inhumane and widely opposed by the public. Alaska's wildlife should be managed with respect and care, not through unnecessary and harmful population reductions.

Furthermore, many Indigenous communities in Alaska view these animals as culturally and spiritually significant. Disregarding their importance to these communities disrespects their traditions and values. In addition, healthy predator populations contribute to Alaska's eco-tourism industry, which supports local economies.

Rather than resorting to predator reductions, I urge policymakers to consider alternative solutions such as habitat management, improved hunting regulations, and public education about coexistence strategies. These approaches are more sustainable and respectful of Alaska's natural and cultural heritage.

For these reasons, I strongly urge the rejection of Proposal 75. Protecting bears and wolves is essential to preserving the ecological balance, ethical integrity, and cultural significance of Alaska's wildlife.

I whole heartedly OPPOSE Prop 75 to reduce predator animal populations via aerial gunning down. Not only is this barbaric and needless, it does not work to boost moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters as evidenced empirically by a 2022 study. It is more important than ever to maintain balanced ecosystems and to keep them intact. Bears and wolves might be inconvenient for hunters and the livestock industry but they are keystone species that are necessary for us to thrive. Additionally, large carnivore management in Alaska is a disgrace and a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations or identify causal relationships between predator control and pre-population dynamics.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Proposal 75 in Unit 16, which aims to reduce the populations of brown bears, black bears, and wolves through aerial gunning. This proposal not only undermines the values of wildlife conservation but also threatens the significant economic benefits derived from wildlife viewing in our beautiful state. Alaska is renowned for its stunning natural landscapes and diverse wildlife, which attract millions of visitors each year.

According to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, wildlife viewing generates approximately $2.5 billion annually for the state's economy. This figure highlights the importance of maintaining healthy populations of iconic species like bears and wolves, which are critical to the ecosystem and serve as a major draw for tourists.

I strongly oppose proposal 75. The indiscriminate killing of wolves (and likely of bears if the 2022 sequence of events is any indication of that being possible) is unjustified. Moose hunting numbers are likely being undercounted due to less snow cover, and as is previously available numbers seem healthy and within a range that DOG has historically deemed as not requiring such drastic action. The wolves and bears in Denali and Lake Clark draw more tourism dollars to the region than the hunting would generate for the public, and are fulfilling their duty as a natural resource for the state.

Before implementing predator control programs that could have real negative impacts not only for the ecosystem but for local tourism businesses, I would urge DOG to improve their count methods, test other management methods that improve hunting without culling critical predators, and consider alternate sources of income for the department that better aligns with the future of Alaska.

I am writing to voice my opposition to Proposal 75. Proposal 75 would allow aerial gunning and other lethal methods to kill wolves and wildlife in Unit 16, near some Alaskas most iconic national parks. If passed, the Department of Fish and Game aims to reduce wolf populations by 73-80%, threatening local ecosystems. Wolves are a keystone species and large scale has devastating consequences to keystone species and studies have shoe bears are crucial to nutrient transfer from water to forest ecosystems through carrion waste. The consequences of this proposal will reach far and wide sand importantly will have a direct negative impact to the local ecosystem and economy. Proposal 75 has the potential to become another Mulchatna Predator Control Program, which has so far killed over 200 brown bears in southwest Alaska. The proposal would add department removal of wolves, brown bears, and black bears to Unit 16's Intensive Management Plan. Unit 16 lies between Denali National Park and Preserve and Lake Clark National Park and Preserve. ADFG would be authorized to kill wolves, brown bears, and black bears with the use of aircraft, including helicopters, to achieve reduction goals. The reduction goals, according to Unit 16's Intensive Management Plan are: -Wolves: remove 73–80% of wolves in the area (population of 35- 55 wolves)

-Brown bears: remove 60% of brown bears in the area (minimum population of 375)

-Black bears: remove 60–80% of black bears in the area (minimum population of 700)

Studies have shown that Alaska's predator control programs — aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters — do not increase human moose harvest. Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations or identify causal relationships between predator control and pre-population dynamics. If approved, this proposal would give ADFG full reign to implement an aerial gunning plan in Unit 16. Once a proposal like this is approved, ADFG has the authority to develop an Operational Plan for aerial gunning that is not open to public comment.

I oppose Proposal 75 (areal gunning of Alaska's brown bears north of Lake Clark National Park).

Reasoning:

1. Inhumane and Unethical: Aerial gunning is a cruel method of wildlife management. It causes unnecessary suffering and death to bears, including cubs, which is ethically unacceptable
2. Disruption of Ecosystem Balance: Bears play a vital role in maintaining the health of the ecosystem. Reducing their population can disrupt the natural predator-prey balance, leading to unforeseen ecological consequences
3. Lack of Scientific Justification: Studies have shown that predators like bears are not the primary factor affecting the populations of prey species such as moose and caribou. Therefore, targeting bears for population control lacks a solid scientific foundation
4. Negative Impact on Tourism and Recreation: The areas surrounding Lake Clark National Park are popular for wildlife viewing and outdoor recreation. Aerial gunning could negatively impact tourism, which is an important economic activity for local communities
5. Precedent for Future Wildlife Management: Allowing such extreme measures sets a dangerous precedent for future wildlife management practices, potentially leading to more aggressive and inhumane control methods

By opposing Proposal 75, we can advocate for more humane and scientifically sound wildlife management practices that respect both the animals and the ecosystem.

I am writing to voice my concern regarding 5 AAC 92.122. Massacring native predator populations to increase future moose harvests is a shortsighted and selfish policy aimed solely at benefiting hunters. I strongly reject turning Lake Clark into a supply-and-demand wildlife farm for recreational hunting.

As someone who loves hunting and views it as a noble activity, I believe hunters must recognize when they outnumber wildlife and be content with is provided rather than constantly lowering predator populations every time they decide that they want to harvest more ungulates. Reducing the black bear population by 700 and the brown bear population by 375 in unit 16B all in the hope of improving recreational hunting opportunities, is catering to only hunting. The request that more wolves be harvested is also another absurd request. Conservation is not conservation if special recreational interests like hunting is put over the well being of wildlife.

Lake Clark is one of the most remote and pristine locations in the country. If wolves and bears cannot be left to self-regulate their populations and moose in such a remote place, then there is no place on earth where they can.

In the lower 48, we have barely an eighth of the population of grizzlies, black bears, and gray wolves that once encompassed the continent from west to east, north to south. That is a tragedy. A tragedy that must not be repeated in Alaska.

Proposal 75, which authorizes department staff to remove wolves, black bears, and brown bears using aircraft, is a deeply flawed approach to wildlife management that undermines ecological balance and ethical principles. Predators play a crucial role in maintaining healthy ecosystems by regulating prey populations, which in turn supports biodiversity and habitat stability. Removing predators through such aggressive methods can lead to overpopulation of prey species, habitat degradation, and cascading negative effects on the ecosystem. Additionally, targeting species such as black bears indiscriminately, including sows and cubs, raises serious ethical concerns and violates principles of humane wildlife management. The use of aircraft for culling introduces further ethical and ecological issues, as it disrupts wildlife behavior on a massive scale and fails to distinguish between individuals critical to genetic diversity or social structure. Instead of pursuing a short-term solution focused on predator reduction, efforts should prioritize non-lethal methods, habitat restoration, and community-based conservation initiatives that align with long-term ecological and ethical goals.

I am providing these comments in OPPOSITION to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game's (the "Department") Proposal 75 to amend 5 AAC 92.122. Intensive Management Plan VI to authorize the Department to "remove" or kill wolves, brown bears, and black bears in GMU 16. As a nonconsumptive user of wildlife and a longtime resident of the State of Alaska, I have a passion for viewing and photographing wildlife in the wild and knowing that all wildlife is flourishing in my State of Alaska. I have recreated in and flown over GMU 16 countless times and plan to continue to do so in the future yet I have never seen a wolf in GMU 16. Article VIII, Section 3 of the Alaska Constitution states that wildlife is reserved for the common use of the public. This includes both consumptive and nonconsumptive uses and requires the Board of Game to make decisions in the interests of all Alaskans, including current and future generations. Indeed, the provisions of Article VIII read together impose a public trust and fiduciary duty on this Board to conserve Alaska's wildlife and to manage Alaska's wildlife for the long term benefit of all Alaskans. For too long, this Board of Game has only considered the interests of hunters and trappers and not the interests of nonconsumptive users of wildlife and has grossly mismanaged the prey and predator populations by allowing overhunting of moose and overtrapping of wolves in GMU 16. Now this Board of Game wants to correct their mistakes by authorizing the Department to kill virtually all the wolves and many of the brown and black bears in GMU 16. This predator control operation will not work, is not in the interests of all Alaskans including future generations and nonconsumptive users of wildlife, and violates this Board's legal requirement articulated in provisions of the Alaska Constitution and case law construing those provisions to manage Alaska's wildlife for the benefit of all Alaskans and not just hunters and to conserve wildlife (particularly in these environmentally uncertain times).

GMU 16 is approximately 20,000 square miles yet, by the Department's own count, there are at most 150 to 180 wolves. This is .009 wolves per square mile. This small number of wolves is very unlikely to be having any significant impact on the number of moose in GMU 16. Instead, in a report issued by the Department, the primary predators of moose in GMU 16 have been residents of Anchorage and the Mat-Su Valley who come to hunt moose by airplane, high powered snow machines, or four wheelers using high-powered firearms: “several community members (from Skwentna) reported observations that some moose hunters participating in the Tier II winter hunt are also having a detrimental impact on moose in the area. These respondents said that some nonlocal hunters using powerful modern snowmachine technology are putting unprecedented levels of pressure on overwintering moose.” “They run the moose down and exhaust them without even seeing if they have antlers until they are ready to kill them. The moose break their legs and pull muscles in deep snow and the young ones become really stressed. This happens over and over to the same moose in the same season and it definitely has an impact on their health . . . They separate mothers from calves and do a lot of harm. Pregnant cows often abort their calves or have stillborns because of this stress.” Special Publication No. BOG 2019-03, “Overview of Use Patterns, Regulations, and Harvest History of Moose in Game Management Unit 16B.” This report, on page 7 and other pages, indicates that whenever the moose population increases after decreasing, this Board significantly increases the number of permits issued rather than balancing people’s desire to hunt with conservation of the moose population. Because this Board ignores conservation, and the increased hunting pressure on moose in GMU 16, several severe winters were enough to significantly decrease the number of moose. This has nothing to do with predation by wolves, brown bears, and black bears and everything to do with mismanagement and this Board’s authorization of overhunting when they should have been thinking of conservation given the historical increase and decrease of moose in GMU 16. This Board should have erred on the side of conservation to ensure the amount necessary for subsistence. However, now this Board is blaming its mismanagement of the moose population on a very small number of wolves, brown bears, and black bears.

Predator control of wolves, brown bears, and black bears does not work. The Department has allowed private citizens to kill wolves, brown bears, and black bears and has on its own killed wolves, brown bears, and black bears to increase prey populations but to no avail. Virtually every prey population in Alaska is declining precipitously except the Porcupine Caribou Herd. Even the Mulchatna Caribou Herd, which has been intensively managed against the recommendations of two of the Department’s own wildlife biologists, has not increased significantly after the slaughter of 180 brown bears, an unknown number of black bears, and over 50 wolves. The current estimated count of the Mulchatna Caribou Herd with the margin of error is the same as it was before implementation of the predator control operation. The only way to increase prey populations is by significantly limiting hunting including illegal hunting. Just because someone lives in Alaska, whether it be in a rural or urban area, does not guarantee their right or privilege to get a moose, sheep, or caribou every year. Particularly considering the recent environmental changes and bacterial diseases which are causing the declines of caribou, moose, sheep, and other populations all around the State of Alaska. This Department’s current management policies of wildlife are going to result in wildlife declining and eventually disappearing just as Chinook, Chum, and Coho salmon have under this Department’s misguided management decisions. Do you, the members of the Board of Game, all really want to be the people personally responsible for the decline and eventual extinction of the State of Alaska’s wildlife populations?

Predator control upends natural selection and selects for the genetically weaker members of a population. Wolves, bears, sheep, moose, wolverines, beavers, and many other animals are currently declining precipitously in the State of Alaska. These animals are all integral to the vast and varied ecosystems in the State of Alaska. When hunters kill animals, they generally target the genetically superior members of a population such as the oldest rams with the fullest curls who are strong enough to have survived many winters, the moose and caribou which are the largest with the biggest racks, the leaders of their herds, and have survived the longest, or the biggest wolves, wolverines, or beavers. Predators, on the other hand, prey on the older, weaker, sicker, and genetically inferior members of a population. Together, this upends natural selection, which naturally selects for the genetically superior members of a population, and instead selects for the genetically inferior members of a population. This is obvious to anyone who has studied genetics and read and studied Charles Darwin's and Alfred Russel Wallace's On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection, or the Preservation of Favoured Races in the Struggle for Life. This results in genetically inferior prey populations which are less able to adapt to environmental and biological challenges and escape legal and illegal hunters. As a result, we are witnessing the Board's approval and the Department's implementation of misguided predator control operations which have not significantly increased the overall abundance of prey populations. Predator control may work in the very short term, but over the long term, predator control changes the genetics of a population to be inferior and less able to adapt and survive in the changing climate and with more prevalent biological diseases. Humans are foolish and arrogant to believe that they can step in and control nature. See <https://pmc.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/articles/PMC2841644/>, <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=6297&context=facpub>, and <https://www.vaia.com/en-us/textbooks/environmental-science/elements-of-ecology-8-edition/chapter-15/problem-10-how-can-prey-function-as-agents-of-natural-select/>.

In addition, if this Board approves Proposal 75 authorizing the Department to shoot 100 wolves so that only about 35 to 55 wolves remain in all of GMU 16, which is an area which encompasses and abuts Denali National Park and Preserve and Lake Clark National Park and Preserve, places where many people recreate and go to view wolves, brown bears, and black bears, this Board is only considering the interests of hunters and trappers and is not considering the interests of all Alaskans including future generations and nonconsumptive users of wildlife. Given the already extremely low number of wolves in the very vast GMU 16, this would violate several provisions of the Alaska Constitution including Article VIII, Sections 3 and 4. Rather than approving predator control in GMU 16, this Board should impose a hiatus on any hunting for five years, allow nature to control the outcome, and see what happens to the populations of moose during this period. In any event, conducting predator control of wolves so that there are only .00175 wolves per square mile violates the sustained yield and common use clauses of the Alaska Constitution.

Finally, I have been informed by an owner of a lodge in Denali National Park and Preserve that every wolf is worth $1.3 million in tourist revenue per year. If this Board approves Proposal 75, then this Board is completely ignoring the tourist industry which financially benefits and employs a significant number of Alaskans.

Future generations of Alaskans should not be limited to only being able to view wolves trapped in zoo enclosures. Even though I have traveled to virtually every area of Alaska, I have only seen one wolf in the late 1990's while flying from King Salmon to Anchorage. This was one of the most impactful wildlife sightings of my entire life and I will never forget this memory of a large wolf on the tundra looking up as we flew by in our Turbine Beaver.

For all these reasons, the Board should vote to disapprove the Department's Proposal 75.

I strongly oppose PROPOSAL 75 because it is clearly a plan that favors hunter's whims over sound ecological understanding and best practices in wildlife management. There is no data that suggests such methods benefits the habitat as a whole nor will increase moose numbers. Not only that, but the outdated methods of counting often overestimate how many wolves there actually are. It makes no difference to the moose if wolves are heinously suppressed like this if harsh winters and other climate change induced weather events changes their habitat to less suitable conditions for moose numbers to grow. Failing to take into account the suitability of habitat and climate change's impacts on what moose need to thrive is unethical and dishonest and this proposal should be tossed out on that basis alone. Habitat should be inexhaustibly analyzed first before so called 'predator control' programs are put on the table.

Aerial gunning might easily be understood as indiscriminate slaughter. A predator population is interactive and dependent on the strength of the individuals within the group. Unusually destructive practices, such as aerial gunning, contribute to jeopardizing those populations on many fronts. An example would be the extensive loss of individual animals whose roles, characteristics and hereditary traits we can't understand or compensate for in this kind of "management" effort.

I view the work of the Board to be primarily strong, well balanced, conscientious stewardship. Aerial gunning is not stewardship at all.

Hello, I'm reaching out concerning proposal 75. It breaks my heart to see humans once again « taking control » over nature and damaging it over and over with our actions. PLEASE leave it be. PLEASE leave those animals alone in the only space they have. Us animals are taking so much space and control, it's not fair for them. Let Alaska be that wild place everyone reads about, that's what makes it Alaska, that's what makes it a gem. Not the humans but the wildness. Please consider leaving the land alone and for once letting nature do what it's suppose to do. I think it knows better than us...

I've traveled from Colorado to Alaska, specifically for the chance to see the incredible wildlife that calls Alaska home, and the idea of bears being targeted for death, from the air, is horrific. This land is home to all humans and creatures- just because we (humans) can operate machinery (guns) doesn't make us better or more important. Protect the bears please!!!! So much is being taken from our natural environment, please don't take more. If Alaska wildlife dept moves forward with this, I don't know that I'd ever return. I strongly oppose Proposal #75.

1) The idea that IM on state lands has no effect on the wildlife populations within Federally-protected National Park Service lands is outdated. Recent studies verify that there have been and will be adverse effects on carnivore populations in these protected spaces as a result of IM on adjacent state lands. This Proposal will cause harm to species on lands outside of your jurisdiction.

2) Further, any wildlife biologist will tell you the difficulty of accurately determining black bear or brown bear populations. How can your state agency possibly determine the effects they are having on these species if they don't truly know their baseline populations?

3) Based on the documents I've read, your moose harvest numbers remain flat, negating your state agency's statements of success in increasing ungulate harvest through wolf and bear harvest.

4) Your basic premise is false, your IM methods are old school (predator control does not benefit ungulate habitat), and you do not have adequate monitoring of your carnivore or ungulate populations. This Proposal #75 is a terrible idea from start to finish.

I oppose Prop 75 which would allow public aerial shooting of wolves and permit the Alaska Department of Fish and Game to lethally remove wolves, black bears, and brown bears by any means—using state, private, or chartered helicopters and equipment. Prop 75 is part of 5AAC92.122 Intensive Management Plan that has aggressive goals to reduce up to 80% of wolves, 60–80% of black bears, and 60% of brown bears.

Aerial shooting and lethal removal are cruel, indiscriminate, and cause unnecessary suffering to wildlife. History has shown these methods escalate quickly without proper oversight.

Wolves and bears play vital ecological roles by regulating prey populations. Removing these predators destabilizes ecosystems, threatening biodiversity and long-term environmental health.

Proposal 75 grants broad, unchecked powers to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game with no clear limits, oversight, or public accountability—setting the stage for widespread and indiscriminate killing.

Healthy predator populations are vital for Alaska’s wilderness and tourism economy. Lethal predator control undermines these populations, harms conservation efforts, and threatens wildlife-based economic opportunities.

I was however horrified to hear about this proposal, and disgusted that my own place of work, an organization I take pride in, is abhorrently disregarding data in suggesting this proposition. Data shows that predator management through open season hunting/aerial gunning in this area does not in fact correlate strongly to the moose population rebounding. I understand the importance of TEK practices, food security for remote and indigenous communities, and food security purposes, but I think there are much more intelligent and holistic ways of managing for these ends. There are many other avenues to take in which to deal with predators interfacing with humans if that is part of the concern. I urge the Board (BOG) to deny this proposition for these reasons. I do not support the killing of wolves, black bears or brown bears from helicopters.

Killing these animals will not help with restoring caribou numbers. The Alaska State biologists studied the issue and determined the main reasons for the decline were disease and a lack of food and disease.

The biologists reported that 1/3 of the herd tested positive for Brucellosis.

Also, the climate change is slowly impacting the landscape where the lichen that caribou depend upon is disappearing.

The proposal of killing more wolves and bears will not change the primary reasons for the caribou herd decline.

I Oppose proposal 75.

The Alaska Department of Fish and Game should not have the ability or the freedom to decide without comment at any given time for unreviewed culling of black bear, brown bear, or wolves as outlined in The unit 16 intensive management plan.

Given the rapidly changing climate, and the potential for that to impact species' distributions and populations, the department needs, as well as the public needs may change. Given the rapidly changing environment, it also seems to make more sense to allow for regular reviews of specific management options, and it does not make sense to continue to plan for the future of species in a static way.

It is more likely that the department will need to modify management goals to accommodate changing species diversities.

Additionally, I would comment that it seems strange that on the Alaska Department of fishing game online, The description of bag limits for unit 16 is populated with photographs of successful bear hunting, and there is no visual of the hunting of moose caribou or deer. It seems clear that this is a successful zone for hunting bear, so why cull the bear population so that you can harvest another species instead.

I reiterate that I am an opposition to proposal 75. The intensive wildlife plan being okayed for future use is both unnecessary, and unwise, considering the inevitable change, put on by the environment, and therefore the change in the needs of the public and the department.

Opposition to Proposal 75

Predators, including wolves, play an essential role in maintaining ecological balance. Scientific studies consistently demonstrate that predators regulate their own populations based on available resources, improving ecosystem health. Wolves naturally cull weaker prey, strengthening ungulate populations, while also preventing overgrazing that can degrade vegetation and habitats.

The removal of keystone species like wolves destabilizes ecosystems and undermines conservation goals. Predator eradication often fails long-term, as populations rebound through higher reproduction rates or immigration into resource-abundant areas. These efforts are costly, unsustainable, and lack ecological justification.

Unit 16 serves as a critical wildlife corridor connecting two National Parks, facilitating genetic diversity and ecological resilience. Wolves are integral to this balance, contributing to healthier ecosystems by fostering biodiversity and enhancing habitat stability. Proposals to reduce their population ignore the broader environmental consequences of such actions.

I urge the Alaska Board of Game to reject Proposal 75. Wildlife management decisions must be based on sound science, not unsupported strategies that risk long-term ecological harm. Protecting predators like wolves ensures the vitality of Alaska's ecosystems and upholds the state's legacy of responsible conservation.

I am commenting to oppose measure 75. "Managing" Bears by killing them from the air is simply slaughter - not management. It reminds me of the slaughter of the Bison in the lower 48 in the late 1800's. There is nothing scientific about this. Humans are their greatest predator and threat! They have every right to live in their native habitat and range! We are the encroachers! Bears struggle to survive as it is! Their reproductive cycle is minimum 3 years. Only 30% of cubs survive to subadulthood! Female Bears don't begin to reproduce until they are 5 -8 years old! In this year alone I'm the Greater Yellowstone/Grand Teton National parks over 83 Bears have died because of humans! I know that Alaska has a good number of bears but this measure is not "management". A grizzly bear's diet is only 10% meat and 90% vegetation, berries, roots, etc. Killing them and saying it is to help ungulates is just not true! It is simply a sad rationalization and justification for this proposed action. I ask that this proposal be denied!! And I am not just some city person who doesn't live with wildlife. I live in the mountains of northeast Oregon where we have every wild animal that Alaska has except for caribou and grizzlies. We have wolves, deer, elk, black bears, moose, etc! I know what it is like to live in this environment! I learn so much about people who are cruel to animals. It tells me much about their character. Comment for Proposal 75 – 5 AAC 92-122. Intensive Management Plan VI.

I strongly oppose Proposal 75.

Significant issues:

- The proposal to massacre 100 wolves annually is unconscionable.
- The proposal masqueraded as an “Intensive Management Plan” is deceitful.
- By all rights, the proposal is definitely NOT a “Management” plan – it is a massacre plan.
- Adding the ability for the department to conduct “control efforts” [massacres] of wolves and bears does not ensure active management of predators.
- Who decided that the wolf population objective should only be 35-55? What scientific, environmental, and biological reasoning backs up the objective?
- Another irrational reason for the proposed massacre of wolves seems to hinge on the belief that some wolves have poor pelt quality due to lice.
- I think the department should investigate to determine the cause of the lice breakout and implement measures to aid in reducing and prohibit further breakouts – not massacre the wolves.
- Just because the wolves have “poor quality pelts” does not justify the department killing them.

In addition to my opposition of Proposal 75, I am opposed to trapping, snaring, and humans using methods of calling, baiting, dogs, night vision binoculars and scopes, thermal vision scopes, etc.

Alaska appears to be a state that feeds off the death of wildlife no matter the means. This is very disturbing to know the plight of Alaska’s wildlife is in the hands of officials that sanction careless, negligent, and fraught decisions disguising it as a “management plan”.

Response to Proposal 75: 5 AAC 92.122 Intensive Management Plan VI

I strongly object to the inclusion of brown bears in the proposed predator control measures outlined in Proposal 75 due to the absence of credible scientific evidence or rationale supporting this addition. While the objective to manage wolf populations is supported by data indicating a numerical surplus, no analogous evidence has been provided to demonstrate that brown bears significantly impact the stated management goals or that their removal is necessary.

Predator control actions must be grounded in rigorous ecological research that justifies their implementation, ensures their proportionality, and establishes their effectiveness. Without such evidence, the inclusion of brown bears appears arbitrary and raises serious concerns about the potential misuse of management authority. Broadly authorizing the removal of brown bears without explicit thresholds, population impact assessments, or scientifically derived objectives risks undermining the ethical and ecological integrity of wildlife management practices.

Additionally, brown bears play a critical role as a keystone species in maintaining ecological balance. Implementing their removal without a thorough evaluation of the long-term ecological consequences would not only be irresponsible but could also lead to unintended and harmful impacts on biodiversity and ecosystem dynamics.

In conclusion, I urge the board to reject the inclusion of brown bears in this proposal unless compelling and peer-reviewed scientific evidence is presented to justify their removal. Wildlife management decisions must remain evidence-based and ecologically sound to maintain the credibility and integrity of conservation efforts.

I oppose Proposal 75. Why? The proposal by using random aerial shooting with state owned aircraft to kill bears and wolves is such an unethical means. Instead perhaps gradually increasing predator hunting tags to guard against a boom and bust cycle.

THIS IS NOT CONSERVATION, or protecting our ecosystem. This is about human desire to manipulate wildlife populations to meet human wants (not needs). This is continued intolerance that people have for wolves and bears. It's immoral, cruel approach. Bears are considered a keystone species, meaning they have a disproportionately large impact on the balance and functioning of bears habitats. They contribute to seed dispersal, nutrient cycling, and plant diversity through their foraging behavior. Bears also help control herbivore populations, which prevents overgrazing and allows vegetation to thrive.

Unit 16 shares its southern border with Lake Clark National Park, one of the last pristine brown bear habitats left on earth. The brown bear population here is already under extreme threat from the devastating development of the Johnson Tract Mine, collapsing silver salmon runs, and the impending threat of continued salmon run decline.

Viewing tourists at Lake Clark National Park can benefit the local economy significantly, primarily through "bear viewing tourism" which attracts visitors to see brown bears fishing for salmon, generating income for local businesses like lodges, tour operators, and guides, thus supporting jobs in the area; studies have shown this can contribute millions of dollars to the regional economy.

We are capable of doing better by these noble creatures. It is our moral and ethical responsibility as human beings in charge of stewarding our wildlife. We need to protect and preserve our environment, wildlife, and habitat. This is why I oppose Proposal 75.

"Bears and wolves play important roles in the Alaska ecosystem, including:

Maintaining healthy prey populations

"Bears and wolves are effective predators that keep moose and caribou populations in check, which can help prevent overpopulation. This allows prey populations to persist at low densities, even in productive habitats."

Regulating the ecosystem

"Bears help maintain healthy ecosystems by dispersing seeds, aerating soil, and regulating prey populations."

Restoring grizzly bear diets

"The return of wolves has helped restore berries to grizzly bear diets, which are important for putting on fat before hibernation."

Contributing to the economy

"Bear tourism in Southcentral Alaska is a valuable economic asset, generating millions of dollars in revenue. "

"However, aggressive predator management, such as reducing bear and wolf populations, can be ineffective and harmful. These efforts can disrupt the natural balance of the ecosystem, harming both predators and prey."

Proposal 75 is a death sentence for the brown bears in Unit 16. I strongly oppose and urge ADF&G to reconsider. A gradual increase in hunting tags would prevent a boom and bust scenario, and bolster the economy. That is their home and one of the few remaining ideal habitats for the species.

My name is Jenna Hamm and my husband, Simon, and I own and operate Camp Denali, a 72-year wilderness vacation lodge inside Denali National Park in the Kantishna Hills. This letter is a written comment in opposition to Proposal 75, which would authorize the ADF&G to conduct aerial hunting of black bears, brown bears, and wolves in Game Management Unit 16 for the purposes of reducing the population of these predators.

We are voicing our opposition to this proposal, personally and on behalf of our business, Camp Denali, for three reasons.

1- Active predator control is a bludgeon, a simplistic wildlife management tool that misses the mark. Over the years, it has demonstrated few positive effects on the game populations it aims to boost, and is repeatedly conducted by the Department without regard to- or funding for- robust experimental design to measure and monitor its short- and long-term impacts. Without data and evidence to support its continued use, the Department should let go of this wildlife management tool and the Board cease to require it.

2- While predation on moose, caribou and sheep is one cause of mortality, it is neither the sole factor, nor one that singularly limits population growth. Habitat quality (ie, the release of willows after wildfire), winter weather and snowfall (ie, deep snow winters or years when mid-winter rain events create ice layers in the snowpack), disease, and the compounding impact of a changing climate on all of these factors together contribute to game species mortality. To single out predation by bears and wolves removes only one small factor, disrupts the ecosystem dynamics, and ignores the complexity of conditions that contribute to the overall health of wildlife populations.

3- As long-term residents of the Denali area, we are aware that the Board of Game has been reluctant to heed the economic value of watchable wildlife or wildlife tourism over the consumptive uses of wildlife hunting and trapping. Here is where the Board is out of touch with Alaska residents. While many if not most Alaskans value places to hunt and trap, they also value the wild landscapes that support all of Alaska's wildlife. Alaskans don't love our wildlife and wildlands because they are "farmed" for its game. As business owners that rely on visitors' interest in observing Alaskan wildlife, we'll keep on advocating for wildlife management practices throughout the State that promote viable and healthy populations of all of Alaska's wildlife. Game management practices that diminish opportunity for visitors to observe bears and wolves are not only misguided, they blatantly disregard economic opportunity for wildlife tourism businesses.

We do not support Proposal 75 for the reasons above, and we urge the Board to reject this proposal. Thank you for your consideration.

Re: Opposition to Proposal 75 - 5 AAC 92.122 Intensive Management Plan VI

Dear Alaska Department of Fish and Game:

I am a wildlife ecologist and environmental attorney and write in opposition to Proposal 75. My background includes a B.S. in Renewable Natural Resources (major in Wildlife and Fisheries Science), J.D., and Ph.D. in Environmental Science and Management. I have worked in wildlife conservation since the late 1990s and began my professional career working in brown bear management at Katmai National Park.

Proposal 75 is a short-sighted and ill-advised approach to achieving Departmental goals. It perpetuates the intolerance and persecution of apex predators that have long characterized wildlife management in the United States. It deems these species expendable and lacks consideration of the overarching and complex role they play in regional ecosystem dynamics; indeed, loss of apex predators is a major driver of ecosystem destabilization and collapse (Estes et al. 2011).

The Department's stated rationale for Proposal 75 is to increase the moose population in Unit 16. This rationale relies on the overly simplistic assumption that predators are the only meaningful driver of moose populations in the region, and that an aerial and ground assault on bears and wolves is the most efficacious means of restoring "desirable" levels of ungulates to the region (see Frey et al. 2022). The Department fails to consider how predator culls may affect moose behavior in ways that will influence future abundance and distribution (see Ethier et al. 2024). It neglects due consideration of the delimiting force that prey populations themselves exert on species like wolves (see, e.g., McLellan et al. 2024). It also fails to analyze similar programs, like British Columbia's wolf cull, whose efficacy in protecting ungulate populations is questionable (see, e.g., Harding et al. 2020; see also Horne 2024 (concluding that removing bears is unlikely to be an effective strategy in removing predation on ungulate neonates)).

The scientific literature contains extensive critiques of lethal predator control (see Bergstrom 2017 and literature cited therein). Bergstrom (2017) cites five primary reasons that wildlife managers should move away from these management techniques:

- (1) Potential disruption of top-down forcing and consequent loss of ecosystem resilience and biodiversity;
- (2) "Bycatch" or unnecessary killing of nontarget species of mammals and other wildlife that occurs with nonselective methods of lethal control;
- (3) Population reduction of certain species of native wildlife valued by many parts of society for the benefit of a few favored interest groups;
- (4) Ineffectiveness of lethal control of predators at either reducing livestock depredation or, secondarily enhancing game populations, over the long term; and

(5) Ethical considerations about both the intrinsic value of carnivores and humane methods of killing them.

(Id. at 2.) As to the last point, aerial gunning is horrifically cruel to the target animals, many of whom must be shot over the course of multiple passes before they are killed.

Proposal 75 fails to address any of these concerns. Nor does it consider the potential economic fallout of the proposal: the Department seeks to drive down bear and wolf populations in an area adjacent to Lake Clark National Park—a park whose visitors each spend thousands of dollars in the hopes of seeing the very species whose populations the Department seeks to decimate with this proposal.

It is disappointing and disheartening that Alaska Game and Fish is proposing such an extreme, anachronistic, and regressive approach to wildlife management. As everyone in this field knows, wildlife management is not about managing wildlife—it is about managing human expectations. It is manipulating wildlife populations to meet the desires of a select group of constituents (see Musiani & Paquet 2004). Managers often search for a quick fix instead of addressing greater underlying challenges (e.g., climate change, habitat fragmentation) or working to redefine our relationship with the natural world.

Alaska is a beacon of hope for our native wildlife heritage, a sanctuary for species like bears and wolves that have been exterminated from much of their pre-colonial range. Proposal 75 represents an outdated approach to wildlife management—one that would tarnish the state's reputation and fail to achieve long-term wildlife and ecosystem conservation.

I'm writing to oppose proposal 75, based on the failed history of intensive management to increase calf survival and increase harvest rates. Per the 2023 Miller, Person and Bowyer paper, predator control has failed to raise ungulate harvest in the long term in unit 13 and I see no compelling reason to throw good money after bad on techniques we know don't achieve the goals we're aiming for. I oppose prop 75. Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations, or identify causal relationships between predator control and prey population dynamics. Large carnivore management in Alaska should be based on rigorous science including the status and trends of carnivore populations - this program does not meet those standards. By ADFG's own admission: "Adoption of this proposal would result in significant costs to the department if department staff conduct control activities" (ADFG comments on Prop 75, Page 224). The Intensive Management program against bears and wolves a few hundred miles west cost $231,000 in 2022 and $612,000 in 2023 (page 14, 2024 annual report to Board of Game) Predator control as a whole has accounted for ~$2.5 million in lost federal funding, as Pitman Roberts funds cannot be used for Intensive management. At a time when ADFG has almost no funding for non-game programs and the State is struggling for cash, it is unwise to dedicate another quarter million dollars each year to predator control programs that have yet to be deemed effective

Proposal 75, oppose. I understand that I don't know what it's like to grow up in this kind of environment with what many people might encounter on a daily basis but please consider an alternative. A lot of us became emotionally attached to different things over Covid and the shutdown. For some of us it was wildlife seen from our phones because we needed something natural on which to focus and distract us. So that's my two cents even though I know there's more to the situation that I and many others probably don't know.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Proposal 75 in Unit 16, which aims to reduce the populations of brown bears, black bears, and wolves through aerial gunning. This proposal not only undermines the values of wildlife conservation but also threatens the significant economic benefits derived from wildlife viewing in our beautiful state.

Alaska is renowned for its stunning natural landscapes and diverse wildlife, which attract millions of visitors each year.

According to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, wildlife viewing generates approximately $2.5 billion annually for the state's economy. This figure highlights the importance of maintaining healthy populations of iconic species like bears and wolves, which are critical to the ecosystem and serve as a major draw for tourists,

OPPOSITION FOR PROPOSAL 75

I oppose proposal 75 very strongly as I believe it would have severe negative effects on the local ecosystems. Apex predators such as bears and wolves have proven to be of the utmost importance to ecosystems. As seen in Yellowstone NP with the reintroduction of wolves, the local ecosystem has rebounded and flourished. Alaska is one of the last “wild places” and that largely drives tourism to the area. Tourists come with the hopes of viewing wildlife, especially large apex predators that are not otherwise viewed in the continental US. Randomly gunning down bears and wolves will be viewed as a violent act against the earth and the natural world. During this time of climate crisis, it is imperative that we do everything in our power to protect the land, the plants, the animals. Again, killing off apex predators has a severe trickle down effect with the boom of undulate species that causes overgrazing of the local flora, leading to an unsustainable ecosystem. Ecosystems are extremely sensitive and left to their own devices had a way of balancing itself, it does not require human intervention. Learn from past mistakes in human history where bears and wolves were nearly eradicated, this is not the direction we need to be moving in. When looking to boost local economies look for sustainable eco tourism where humans (including tourists) can come and enjoy the land with all of its inhabitants. Sustainable tourism benefits all those who participate as it provides a sustainable economy, one that can be relied on for years to come. Sustainability passes the test of time and ensures locals have a reliable income for years. I beg you NOT to vote prop 75.

As a concerned citizen who values wildlife conservation and ethical management of natural resources, I strongly oppose Proposal 75, which authorizes the killing of up to 60% of bears and wolves in designated areas of Alaska.

Killing 60% of these populations is excessive and risks disrupting natural ecosystems.

Predators like bears and wolves play a vital role in maintaining balance by controlling herbivore populations, which helps prevent overgrazing.

Predator removal at such high levels can lead to cascading ecological consequences.

The loss of apex predators can create imbalances, such as overpopulation of prey species, which may degrade vegetation and impact other wildlife.

I urge the Alaska Board of Fish and Game to reject Proposal 75 and instead consider conservation-based strategies that reflect both scientific research and ethical wildlife management. Alaska’s iconic wildlife deserves protection, not exploitation.

Protect Bears and Wolves in Alaska

December 27, 2024

We, the 18,691 undersigned, strongly oppose Proposal 75, which would allow the Alaska Department of Fish and Game to cruelly slaughter Alaska's precious wolves, black bears, and brown bears via aerial gunning right outside two of America's treasured national parks. Proposal 75 would allow up to 80% of wolves and black bears and 60% of brown bears in Game Management Unit 16 to be gunned down across a 20,000-acre area bordering Denali and Lake Clark national parks.

Aerial gunning is an indiscriminate method of killing carnivores that involves gunners using airplanes or helicopters to chase and shoot the animals. This harmful, costly activity also poses threats to humans and nontarget animals. The disturbance caused by low-flying aircraft can disrupt habitats, cause significant stress (for people and wildlife), and lead to the displacement of nontarget animals from their natural territories.

The slaughters contemplated by Proposal 75 aren't only inhumane — they're also unsupported by science, which shows that a changing climate, not predators, is the greatest threat to Alaska's moose and caribou populations. Past mass killings of native carnivores carried out by the department in the name of "predator control" have not led to an increase in moose and caribou numbers.

Ignoring all these facts, the department now seeks to bring its devastating "wildlife management" practices to the doorsteps of two of the crown jewels of the national park system. Denali and Lake Clark national parks were established to protect and preserve precious natural resources, including native wildlife and their habitats, for the benefit of current and future generations. Native carnivores are essential to maintaining healthy ecosystems. If the department begins slaughtering these vital carnivores as proposed, the greater Denali and Lake Clark ecosystems will suffer from their loss.

These killings, and the ecological harms that will cascade from them, will rob millions of people of the full benefit of the wild, natural character of these protected places. Proposal 75 is morally and scientifically indefensible. The board can't allow the department to engage in a cruel mass slaughter of wolves, brown bears, and black bears. Please reject Proposal 75.

Please, please vote against Proposal 75. Instead, please find non lethal ways of managing predator populations and of supporting the moose population by habitat restoration, etc.

Opposing 75.

The response of just slaughtering unsuspecting animals as a way to limit and lower the count, is the laziest solution that could've been derived. Why is it that America's response to "too many of some" is to just kill the extras? Perhaps a solution that involves the hunting industry, an increase in hunting trips. Allow lodges and guides to create more jobs and bring in more income to communities through expeditions and entrepreneurship. Let nothing go to waste, but somehow Alaska thinks gunning down wild animals is the way to solve what it perceived as a problem in the ecosystem?

Nature regulates itself. Never has it blindly mass slaughtered high numbers as a way to stabilize ecosystem levels. How can we fight for the protection of these animals when they're endangered, across North America, and then react the exact opposite way when they've been allowed to thrive "too much?" So we are punishing them for living as they should and being healthy animals and playing their roles in the ecosystem? Alaska has always been the wildest frontier, let it remain so. Keep your opinions based on a couple decades of data out of it.

I am commenting on proposal 75. I oppose this proposal. The hunting of bears near two national park boundaries will result in over hunting as bears cross boundaries. It could also have a negative impact on the tourism industry.

The tourism, the photographs, the livelihood of these animals and the thousand of people who rely on these beautiful places for employment and absolute WONDER or Alaska is PRICELESS. These species are what makes these incredible destinations so valuable and deserve the utmost protection.

I was in Lake Clark this season and found the numbers of bears to be significantly down. The same in Katmai. The same with the salmon that these bears rely on. LET THEM LIVE. Let natural selection and nature take its course naturally. You are stewards of one of the most incredible places on earth. Humans undeniable get to decide what lives and what dies. Senseless killing hardly seems like this should be on the agenda.

I am opposing Proposal 75 which would allow public aerial shooting of wolves and permit the Alaska Department of Fish and Game to lethally remove wolves, black bears and brown bears by any means - using state, private or chartered helicopters and equipment. Prop 75 is part of 5AAC92.122 Intensive Management Plan that has aggressive goals to reduce up to 80% of wolves, 60 - 80% of black bears and 60% of brown bears.

Aerial shooting and lethal removal are cruel, indiscriminate and cause unnecessary suffering to wildlife. History has shown these methods escalate quickly without proper oversight.

Wolves and bears play vital ecological roles by regulating prey populations. Removing these predators destabilizes ecosystems, threatening biodiversity and long-term environmental health. The return of the wolves to Yellowstone National Park is a true example of this.

Proposal 75 grants broad, unchecked powers to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game with no clear limits, oversight or public accountability - setting the stage for a widespread and indiscriminate killing.

Healthy predator populations are vital for Alaska's wilderness and tourism economy. Lethal predator control undermines these populations, harms conservation efforts and threatens wildlife-based economic opportunities.

I oppose proposal #75. I strongly believe in the natural curse of equilibrium among predators and prey. Planet Earth and all its biodiversity have shown us for millions of years that they can thrive without human intervention.

Just killing a quote of prey animals such as wolves, black bears, and brown bears to increase the number of ungulate populations to promote sport hunting is not conservation.

Proposal #75 also contradicts scientific evidence of how biological factors regulate wild populations. Please refer to the link below, which shows the pivotal role of predators in maintaining ecological equilibrium and coexistence among other species.

The most reasonable solution to the problem of the potential decrease in ungulate population is to close hunting season for a period of time necessary to have prey animals thrive. Killing predators is deviating the attention to who causes any decline in ungulates, humans! I will encourage Alaska's Department of Fish and Game to reconsider other more efficient practices of population management that cannot cause an unnecessary massacre and an ecological catastrophe. Go back in history and learn from our American communities about how they could coexist with the fantastic wildlife in Alaska. As a mother, I want future generations to experience the magnificent wildlife in Alaska and teach them that we can coexist with other species without harming one another. Thank you so much for your consideration, and let me express my insights about proposal #75. National parks such as Denali and Katmai are prime examples of how wildlife viewing can be a sustainable and profitable alternative to lethal population control methods. In these parks, visitors come from all over the world to experience the thrill of seeing these magnificent animals in their natural habitats. The economic impact of these experiences extends beyond park gates, benefiting local businesses, hotels, and tour operators. In 2021 alone, Denali National Park welcomed over 600,000 visitors, contributing significantly to the local economy.

Moreover, aerial gunning not only raises ethical concerns but also disrupts the natural balance within ecosystems.

Reducing predator populations can have cascading effects on prey species and may lead to overpopulation and habitat degradation, ultimately harming the very wildlife we seek to protect.

Instead of resorting to extreme measures like aerial gunning, we should focus on promoting responsible wildlife management practices that emphasize conservation, habitat protection, and coexistence. Engaging the public through educational programs and sustainable tourism initiatives can foster greater appreciation for our wildlife and encourage stewardship.

In conclusion, I urge the Board to reconsider Proposal 75 and explore alternative approaches that uphold Alaska's reputation as a leader in wildlife conservation and sustainable tourism.

Let us work together to protect our natural heritage and ensure that future generations can enjoy the wonders of Alaska's wildlife.

This is in response to Game Board proposal 75. The affected areas of Unit 16 adjacent to LCNP are remote mountainous glaciated areas far from population centers. On what basis were these areas chosen? Because nobody lives there and therefore won't care about the impacts of this drastic measure to exterminate most of the wolf and bear population? I care. Any reputable scientist knows that extermination of predators is not a viable or sustainable practice for the management of ungulates, and indicates a profound disregard for the intricacies of complex ecosystems, of which humans represent only a small portion. There is no evidence that this misguided attempt at wildlife management has any long term benefit. And any proposals should be presented with more transparency and regard for non consumptive users of wildlife. I am particularly disturbed by the proposal to use helicopters for the purpose of eradication. This is a huge expenditure of taxpayers money and gives the dept. and individuals too much opportunity to eradicate more animals than were intended.

I strongly oppose Proposal 75, which would allow the aerial gunning of wolves and bears in Unit 16, for the following reasons: Ineffective Wildlife Management Decades of predator control in Alaska have failed to increase moose harvests, as shown by ADFG's own research. Killing predators without clear evidence of success wastes resources and doesn't solve the problem. Harm to Alaska's Reputation This program would take place near world-famous parks like Denali and Lake Clark, damaging Alaska's image as a leader in wildlife conservation and tourism. High Costs with No Benefit Past predator control programs have cost millions of dollars without results. At a time when budgets are tight, this proposal is an irresponsible use of funds. Disrupting the Ecosystem Killing predators on such a large scale harms the balance of the ecosystem and is not supported by proper scientific monitoring. Public Opposition Aerial gunning is unpopular and raises ethical concerns. Approving this plan would erode trust in the Board of Game's decision-making. Conclusion Proposal 75 is costly, ineffective, and harmful to Alaska's wildlife and reputation. I urge the Board of Game to reject it and focus on sustainable, science-based wildlife management.

PC697

Comment:

Unit 16 has been down this road before. The unit has been subject to intensive predator management programs since 2003 in order to benefit moose populations. That program was suspended in 2017 as being ineffective.

Unsurprisingly, a 2022 study in the journal Diversity found the following:

"We documented no positive correlations ($p > 0.05$) between harvests of brown and black bears and subsequent moose harvests for any time lag. Moose harvest was negatively correlated with the previous years' wolf harvest, but the relationship was weak (correlation = -0.33 , $p < 0.05$). Consequently, we reject our hypotheses that harvest of predators was positively correlated with moose harvests."

From Miller, Person, Bowyer, "Efficacy of Killing Large Carnivores to Enhance Moose Harvests: New Insights from a Long-Term View."

<https://www.mdpi.com/1424-2818/14/11/939>

So the only likely outcomes of proposal 75 are severe predator mortality (which degrades ecosystems overall), and significant costs to the state.

I am not a resident of Alaska. I have no interest in trying to impose some kind of outsider's will. Alaskan hunters can and should be able to hunt moose in season and within reasonable ecological guidelines. It is simply also true that the present proposal doesn't actually benefit them, and they're not the only people who love and benefit Alaska's wild lands. It would be interesting to calculate the cost in tourism income from every lost brown bear or wolfpack. There is plenty of wilderness to go around.

Gunning down animals from helicopters is not responsible protection or stewardship of the land and living creatures. We the People do not condone this cruel loss of life or interference in nature at a time we should be protecting and cultivating all lives within it. These culls never follow enough research and have been proven time and time again to go too far and make the pendulum swing in the opposite direction, meaning prey animals flourish and cause other issues within ecosystems. It is not our role or right to meddle and kill animals for our own interests. Ecosystems and their balance is very delicate and this is not the way to find that balance. This should never be permitted, ever. We have no right. As I said, a model that sees us as stewards and gives all land rights over to the Indigenous population is the only way forward.

Proposal #75 Aerial Gunning Outside of Denali - OPPOSE

As a frequent visitor to Alaska I am very opposed to proposal #75. It is beyond disturbing the number of wild animals that will be killed in this activity of thinning the numbers of black bear, brown bear and wolves. The killing of these animals in the proposed numbers/percentages is an outrage. The lack of compassion on this scale shows a complete lack of respect to the cycle of life as the killing of each animal affects not just the one lost but the partners and cubs left behind. These animals and the sightings they provide not just visitors but residents are what makes Alaska special. Please rethink this and find a better solution to meet the opposition and support in the middle. More specifics of my opposition are provided below:

Studies have shown that Alaska's predator control programs — aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters — do not increase human moose harvest.

Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations or identify causal relationships between predator control and pre-population dynamics.

If approved, this proposal would give ADFG full reign to implement an aerial gunning plan in Unit 16. Once a proposal like this is approved, ADFG has the authority to develop an Operational Plan for aerial gunning that is not open to public comment.

I strongly OPPOSE proposal 75 which would authorize ADFG staff to kill black bears, brown bears, and wolves with the use of aircraft, including helicopters, in all of Game Unit 16 to "achieve [predator] reduction goals". The adoption of this proposal would also give ADFG the authority to develop an operational plan for aerial gunning that is not open to public comment. This is not in keeping with open process of Board meetings.

Although I am a 43-year resident of Sitka, I have spent time hiking and viewing wildlife in Game Unit 16 and plan to do so in the future with my grandchildren. The area proposed for aerial gunning shares borders with Denali National Park, Denali National Preserve, Denali State Park, Lake Clark National Preserve, and Lake Clark National Park, areas heavily used by residents and visitors alike for wildlife viewing. Allowing aerial gunning on the borders of these parks would essential allow destruction of wildlife utilizing park habitat even though this would be illegal within park boundaries. Do not allow this.

I worked for ADFG for 2 decades and am dismayed that they are ignoring their own scientific results reporting the ineffectiveness of predator control programs (<https://www.mdpi.com/1424-2818/14/11/939>). This proposed program is not a serious attempt to solve a problem and will cost significant money to a department strapped for funds as well as create a public relations nightmare for the State, whose reputation as wildlife managers was severely compromised by the slaughter of 200 bears in southwestern Alaska.

Shooting from helicopters and mass destruction of predators is not an effective method of wildlife management and it is an affront to most people, including tourists that come to visit Denali and other parks, specifically to see our mega-fauna. The state administration is promoting tourism as if it is the only economic engine we have yet, here the Department is asking for the authority for aerial gunning on the borders of our parks. This is very low class, anti-science, and will create a backlash from visitors. ADFG should read their own research which says this type of predator control does not work. Wolves and bears have value. Leave them alone. Please oppose this proposal.

Hi, I am writing because I am NOT in favor of Prop 75. Here are my main reasons:

- Board of Game members are appointed by the governor (not voted in). I fear that you are more likely to make decisions based on profitability from non-resident hunters than residents.

- ADF&G is required to stay neutral in these proposals, so I'm not sure I trust it.

-This feels like a massive waste of state resources. I'd rather see the money go directly to the native communities in this region so they can more easily afford their food.

-Taking lessons from Yellowstone, we have proof that wildlife like wolves can act as keystone species that actually improve the ecosystems they live in.

-Personally, I'm always uncomfortable with humans playing god. Wildlife executions on this scale fall into that category for me.

-It's incredibly inhumane to shoot these animals from the sky. I'm not against hunting, but this is not how it should be done. They deserve a fair chance.

-My job heavily relies on the success of all wildlife in Denali and Lake Clark. I'd hate to see any of these animals wander over the border of these protected areas and get killed. Wildlife tourism is a massive economy driver for Alaska.

Additionally, aerial shooting is widely regarded as an unethical practice that tarnishes the integrity of wildlife management. Alternative, non-lethal solutions should be explored to address any concerns related to bear populations.

Why wouldn't you instead offer more tags or a longer hunting season to help gradually bring down population? Approaching this situation through hunting will boost the local economy by bringing in hunters from all over while also reducing unnecessary waste. The amount of money that could be brought in by hunters and hunting parties could be substantial for the local economy and the parks. Hunters would at least be putting these animals to good use. Filling people's freezers, homes, photo albums, and stories. I am willing to bet any bear that is killed with the proposed aerial gunning will only go to waste. Realistically, what on earth would one department do with 80% of a bear population? That's a significant amount of wasted resources and potential income. Personally I think the bigger issue is the selfishness of this proposal. You have an opportunity to connect more outdoorsmen and women to such a special part of nature. I am writing to express my strong support for efforts to protect bears in Alaska. As one of the state's most iconic and vital species, bears play a crucial role in maintaining the health of ecosystems and the overall balance of wildlife in the region. Their protection is not only important for preserving biodiversity but also for maintaining the integrity of Alaska's natural heritage.

Given the increasing pressures from habitat loss, climate change, and human-wildlife conflicts, it is critical that we continue to implement and strengthen policies that protect bears and their habitats. This includes safeguarding key areas from industrial development, and supporting initiatives that minimize human impact on their natural environment.

I urge you to prioritize the preservation of Alaska's bear populations by supporting policies that enhance habitat protection, promote coexistence strategies between humans and bears, and invest in research that can guide effective conservation practices. It will drastically disrupt the natural balance, and will not achieve the results that Alaska Fish & Game is looking for. I believe it will cause a major, and possibly, irreparable disruption. The results of using aerial shooting could be devastating, and the costs will be extreme. It is an irresponsible plan to ineffectively manage wildlife and an irresponsible use of funds. Also, these predators are a huge draw economically in this region. Hunters & conservationists alike will be negatively impacted if this management method is adopted. Please consider these thoughts.

I am writing to oppose Proposal 75. It is my belief that this proposal is a terrible idea and would destroy the ecosystem in the area of focus.

If Proposal 75 passes, it would help the department reach its goal to kill:

- 73 -80% of wolves (would stop if the population was reduced to 35)
- 60 80% of Black Bear (would stop if the population was reduced to 700)
- 60% Brown Bear (would stop if population was reduced to 375)

Despite public outrage and opposition, ADFG (Alaska Department Fish and Game) has decided to increase predator control in order to boost the ungulates populations. This is done to please hunters.

Instead of increasing scientifically managed bear and wolf hunting quotas, which could have directly benefited local economies and brought additional funding to wildlife agencies, ADFG are requesting the ability to ELIMINATE BEARS and WOLVES using random aerial shooting. This is unconscionable from any group, but from a state agency, it is unbelievably cruel and environmentally disastrous.

Proposal 75 is not conservation!! Suggesting Proposal 75 was not done with local economies or natural resources in mind.

I was employed for 28 years by ADF&G in the Lower Cook Inlet management district, and have extensive experience with wildlife issues during my 50 years of residence in Alaska.

I believe the intensive predator control measures this proposal would allow represent an outdated, archaic philosophy of wildlife management in order to obtain " maximum sustainable yield " , another unwarranted goal ,

I am writing to comment on proposal 75, the proposed aerial gunning down of wolves, black bears and grizzly bears in unit 16 along the southern border of Denali National Park. This is a disgrace and an affront to Alaskans. It is well known to be a highly unpopular practice not to mention completely counter to the tourism interests in the state. As a business owner in Denali I am alarmed not only by the optics to visitors of Alaska but the use of this kind of unpopular management rather than first managing sport hunting in the area. I also believe a program of such controversy should come to a vote of the people of Alaska who are highly affected by this horrific practice.

There is no place for this brutal unpopular practice in our state and I will do everything in my power to bring this to light in the tourism industry and to the people of this state. It is not in the best interest of our tourism industry or the people of Alaska, not to mention the natural state of wildlife populations.

I am writing in opposition to proposal 75 for the following reasons :

Studies have shown that Alaska's predator control programs — aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters — do not increase human moose harvest.

Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations or identify causal relationships between predator control and pre-population dynamics.

If approved, this proposal would give ADFG full reign to implement an aerial gunning plan in Unit 16. Once a proposal like this is approved, ADFG has the authority to develop an Operational Plan for aerial gunning that is not open to public comment.

I'm writing to oppose Prop 75. Adoption of this proposal would result in significant costs to the department, and this kind of predator control does not increase human moose harvest. Large wildlife management should be based on rigorous science, including status and trends of carnivore populations and this program does not meet those standards. This gunning program borders on some of the most beautiful wildlife viewing areas of the entire world, and is incredibly unpopular with the general public. We want responsible science based wildlife management. On a personal note, I'm a competitive Trad archer with friends who hunt prey animals for food. I've witnessed footage of wolves being aerially gunned down and it will forever haunt me. It is an incredibly inhumane practice. I know wolves are not cuddly cute Disney creatures - I've spent hours with wolves across the country and around the world. They are intelligent animals with families and deserve better treatment than to be hunted down and shot like vermin. Thank you for your time and attention.

Look at when the wolves were wiped out in Yellowstone National park and the entire ecosystem collapsed, and when they were re-introduced it has started bouncing back. Apex predators are necessary. Taking out such a large percentage of their population will genetically restrict the remaining population and there will be a population bottleneck. Our natural resources are worth protecting for our planet and future generations futures.

I strongly oppose Proposal 75.

To put it simply and succinctly what is being proposed here is unethical, and flies in the face of newer, more enlightened conservation practices that work with the land as opposed to "managing" it for the sole purpose of human benefit and no one else's. The "conservation management" (and I use that term extremely lightly) being proposed here is unsound, archaic, and antiquated. The wonton decimation of keystone species who are well known to regulate their own populations is misguided and barbaric. I strongly oppose Proposal 75 and the systemic violence it perpetuates into our natural environments through means of oppression and control that only benefits a few over a short period of time and truly cannot see the forest for the trees. This proposal only promises a devastating ripple effect to the environment and further tarnishes the reputation of Alaska as it shows people there is no respect for this land's rugged beauty and the non-human animals who live there. The mechanical destruction of one (in this case many) wild species in favour of bringing up the population of another for human benefit is the rotten core that still exists in fish and wildlife management. This archaic methodology is part of a larger issue that plagues conservation and environmental science. The wildlife biologists or other fish and wildlife staff who advised this proposal, if there were indeed any, either need to be updated on proper environmental practices of this day and age, or are afraid of losing their jobs and so are making deplorable choices in favour of themselves. This policy and all like it are best walked away from and can be summed up in three words: unscientific, shortsighted, and amoral.

I strongly oppose proposal 75 to aerially dispatch animals in this area. Why would you disturb one of the last strongholds of such incredible species? Being in Montana, the threat of decreased wilderness is hugely apparent. What makes wilderness wilderness is that it is WILD, it is a public resource and it holds the excitement, dangers and self-regulating species that make it so.

If a population decrease is warranted and supported by credited and professional biologists, why not open a special hunting permit which could generate revenue and provide food for community members? Aerial take down of the bears is reckless and sets precedent for unproductive culls and destruction of public resources.

Hello,

I am contacting you as a concerned US citizen that vehemently opposes the passage of proposal 75, which would affect bears and wolves in Denali NP and Lake Clark NP. I understand that the goal is to kill 73 - 80% of wolves, 60 - 80% of Black Bears, and 60% of Brown Bears. This is absolutely inhumane and immoral, and is not the correct way to go about predator management in Alaska. Wolves and bears are already struggling across North America, and systematically eliminating them in such large numbers would prevent these populations from being able to spread out and revitalize wolf and bear populations elsewhere. Please allow hunters to continue to provide selective predator management in these areas over time, rather than cruelly and suddenly killing these animals on a massive scale. Such a sudden and significant change would surely destabilize the local ecosystems and would cause unforeseen ecological issues. Additionally, you would be significantly reducing a major source of tourism funding for your state - nature and wildlife tourism! This would affect people economically, which would cause terrible damage to the livelihoods of so many people who rely on these forms of tourism to survive. I urge you to reconsider this proposal - PLEASE go about predator management in a more gradual, humane manner.

Thank you for your consideration of this!

Proposal 75 - OPPOSE

As a researcher specializing in wildlife biology, working on bear-related research projects for 14 years, and committed to Alaska-specific wildlife issues for the last 9 years, I urge the Board to reject proposal 75. As a rural resident and hunter myself, I understand the value of maintaining ungulate populations valuable for subsistence. However, as a biologist, I care that the way we ensure healthy ungulate populations and conduct wildlife biology is ethical and follows the best available science. I care that the actions we take bring about the desired consequences. And I care that we as wildlife biologists remain trustworthy and that we don't waste our citizens hard-earned money.

The best available science shows that intensive management programs work well under specific circumstances, but often those circumstances are not met. Habitat degradation is often a significant factor in ungulate declines in Alaska and when it or disease are the primary factors contributing to low abundances, predator control doesn't have the desired outcome. Do we know the sources of ungulate declines in the proposal area? The degree and duration of commitment to predator control to achieve even transient changes in ungulate abundances is staggering, and often exceeds departmental resources. What resources do we expect to spend on the predator control outlined in this proposal? Do we have adequate resources to make a lasting difference? Is $612,000 a year (as spent in the Mulchatna IM) for who knows how many years how the people of Alaska want their money spent? Has the board considered other non-consumptive users of wildlife (e.g., bear viewers) – and the value they bring to our state – losses which could be substantial if IM of bears near two significant National Parks and bear viewing areas takes place? Mass reductions in wolf populations can be countered by high reproductive rates of wolves that bring the population back to pre-IM levels within just a few years of ceasing controls. Will we continue predator control forever? Will we be starting it back up again in 10 years when we're back in the same place with the same problems? The state has also challenged its credibility and transparency in the way they've handled recent predator control actions elsewhere. By it's own mandates, IM should follow the IM plan-- but in the case of the Mulchatna Caribou Herd IM plan, several crucial components of the IM plan have not been followed, including the principals that: intensive management programs should be based on scientific information- they should be designed and conducted in a systematic and scientific manner to ensure learning from treatments and responses; populations of ungulates and their predators, ungulate habitat, and wildlife harvest should be monitored using scientific methods (gathering information on predator populations before the predator control, biological sample collection for disease analysis, range conditions of ungulates); programs should have a transparent and explicit decision framework; and programs should be economically and socially sustainable. No research to investigate ungulate range quality, or predator abundances pre-IM were conducted, among other shortcomings in following ADFG's own management plan. Will that happen again under this proposal? Why is the department allowed to not follow their own guidelines? How do we ensure that the guidelines set out for the department and pleas by 100's of local scientists to follow the scientific method will be followed? Sadly, the example the department has set with the Mulchatna IM leaves many scientists wondering if the same will be repeated in this proposal. If the board is to consider IM in proposal 75 or others, I urge the board to include sidebars that will hold the department to higher scientific standards than they have previously ascribed.

Proposal 75 - Aerial Gunning Outside of Denali:

OPPOSE

Proposal 75 has the potential to become another Mulchatna Predator Control Program, which has so far killed over 200 brown bears in southwest Alaska.

The killing of native predators in an area that they naturally inhabit for capitalistic gain is wrong. The populations of bears and wolves in the wild is already low so why is it deemed appropriate to further decrease it.

Studies have shown that Alaska's predator control programs - aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters - do not increase human moose harvest.

Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations or identify causal relationships between predator control and pre-population dynamics.

If approved, this proposal would give ADFG full reign to implement an aerial gunning plan in Unit 16. Once a proposal like this is approved, ADFG has the authority to develop an Operational Plan for aerial gunning that is not open to public comment.

Further more, AF&G acknowledge that their predator culling has made no significant difference to the caribou population. The decline is in the cows, and it's possible that these are being harvested by humans without being observed.

Higher numbers of calf mortality are because of lack of available vegetation such as lichen due to overgrazing and the climate.

If people have ever loved just seeing a photo of a bear or a wolf, they'll do the right thing and comment on this proposal. It's vile and unnecessary and even the hunters don't support it.

I strongly oppose proposal 75 for many reasons. Alaska is a beautiful place because of its wildlife, especially predators. Nowhere in the lower 48 do we have substantial predator populations. These wilderness areas should be intact and allowed to prosper. Predators balance the ecosystem and keep ungulate populations healthy. By removing them, the proposed areas will be out of balance. The American people deserve healthy, public lands! These areas where you propose to slaughter predators, border two national parks. This will GREATLY IMPACT the national parks. National parks are the treasures of our nation. People travel from all over and pay a ton of money to see wildlife, especially predators. I am a mother now. I want my daughter to have the same experiences as me and enjoy our wild lands! We must think of future generations!! Other factors impact ungulate populations. Studies have shown predators do little in effecting ungulates negatively. Far worsser impacts are man-made. They include roads, buildings, deforestation, hunting, habitat loss etc. This proposal is selfish and only benefits a small number of people. It is unnecessary, and a lazy strategy. I challenge you to come up with a better proposal that doesn't involve slaughtering native wildlife, ruining and impacting our public lands and devastating ecosystems. Thank you.

I am writing to express my firm and passionate opposition to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game's proposal to aerially shoot bears in Unit 16: Proposal 75.

This plan, which would result in the mass killing of bears in this area, is deeply troubling and should be rejected in its entirety. The idea of allowing such inhumane practices, which would devastate bear populations in Unit 16, is not only ethically wrong but also reckless in its disregard for the long-term health of the ecosystem.

Bears are a keystone species in Alaska's wilderness, playing a crucial role in maintaining ecological balance. Their presence supports biodiversity, influences prey populations, and helps maintain the integrity of the environment. Aerial shooting of bears would decimate these populations, leading to severe ecological consequences that could ripple through the entire area. Reducing bear numbers by a significant percentage will harm the very ecosystem that we all rely on and value.

This proposal is a short-sighted, cruel solution to complex challenges. Aerial shooting is not a responsible or humane method of wildlife management. It is an inefficient and inhumane practice that disrupts the natural order and undermines the stewardship responsibilities we have as caretakers of Alaska's natural resources. There are far better, non-lethal alternatives for managing wildlife populations and minimizing human-wildlife conflict, such as habitat preservation, education, and the use of non-lethal deterrents.

Alaska has long been a model of responsible wildlife conservation, and this proposal is a dangerous departure from those values. The state's wilderness and its iconic wildlife deserve our protection, not the destructive and unethical measures outlined in this plan.

I urge you to reject this proposal and stand with the majority of Alaskans who believe in humane, responsible wildlife management. The future of Alaska's wilderness and wildlife is at stake, and it is critical that we take a stand to preserve the natural balance that has existed for generations.

Please do the right thing and protect the bears and the integrity of Alaska's ecosystems by rejecting this proposal.

I oppose proposal 75. Life is sacred and our responsibility to care for it even moreso. The balancing of predator and prey populations is crucial to a thriving environment, but the decision to interfere with the natural cycle of predation must be considered carefully and if undertaken, it must be done with the utmost consideration. Predators have the right to live in their natural habitats, and the decision to execute them is a serious matter. Rather than an abrupt assault from aircrafts, perhaps it would be better to slowly increase the number of hunting tags. Removing any apex predator from its environment causes a cascade effect and natural growth expansion in the prey populations. But to do so suddenly may cause undue strain upon the environment, as too many herbivores at once can inflict ruin on the environment via overcrowding and overbrowsing. Please take further time to consider what is best for the environment in this area, and remember that the predators who will be executed if this proposal is passed are living beings who have the same right as every one of us to live on this earth. Their destruction should not be taken lightly.

I oppose Proposal 75 because it grants the Alaska Department of Fish and Game (ADFG) sweeping authority to conduct aerial gunning of wolves and bears in Game Unit 16, a 22,000-square-mile area adjacent to iconic wildlife viewing locations such as Denali and Lake Clark National Parks. This program is rooted in outdated predator control practices that lack scientific rigor and have repeatedly failed to demonstrate effectiveness in increasing prey populations like moose.

Key reasons for opposition include:

Ineffectiveness of Predator Control Programs: Decades of predator control in Alaska, including areas near Unit 16, have not led to increased human harvests of moose or measurable benefits for prey populations, as confirmed by recent scientific studies.

Lack of Scientific Monitoring: The program does not include robust methods to monitor predator population trends or evaluate the impact of control measures. Current data on wolf, black bear, and brown bear populations in Unit 16 is outdated, incomplete, and unreliable.

Erosion of Alaska's Reputation: Aerial gunning borders iconic wildlife areas that attract visitors worldwide. Such programs tarnish Alaska's image as a steward of sustainable wildlife management, especially given their reliance on loose and unverified biological assumptions.

High Costs and Funding Concerns: Implementing Proposal 75 would impose significant financial burdens on ADFG, diverting resources from other wildlife programs. Additionally, predator control programs have already cost Alaska millions in federal funding, with no proven benefit to justify further expenditures.

Undermining Public Accountability: Once approved, ADFG can develop operational plans for aerial gunning without public oversight, removing opportunities for community input on these controversial practices.

Proposal 75 risks Alaska's wildlife, public trust, and fiscal health without demonstrating any proven benefit. For these reasons, I strongly oppose it.

75. Oppose to culling of bears. Oppose to reducing or oppressing life that is not human on this planet. This proposal (75) is not scientifically sound, is unethical and will impact the whole ecosystem including human life. Bears are keystone species and their culling would have a disproportionate negative impact on the ecosystem. Bears attract tourism. Humans should learn to sustainable manage wildlife and in turn protect or shared habitat. This proposed ecocide is suicide.

Proposal 75. Fully support the proposal. Sound predator control especially during calving season significant increases ungulate offspring success and has been demonstrated in Alaska and the lower 48 over and over. Predators are difficult to manage with just hunting. There are liberal limits for these predators currently in unit 16 and it's not getting the job done to help ungulates get above objective.

I am writing a second time due to reevaluating Proposal 75.

After evaluating your datasets, and understanding your reasoning, I reiterate my opposition to the proposal. However, I include more detailed reasoning this time.

I understand that moose is an important game species for communities in the state of Alaska as a food source. Your data indicates that the population decreased greatly between 2017 and 2020, and has been relatively stable, despite decreasing, since then.

While I understand that there has been a period since the stabilization of the population in which calf survival was not high enough to compensate for the population decrease, I do not think Proposal 75 is appropriate.

The sheer quantity of wolves and brown bears removed is exceedingly excessive. The proposed reduction of the wolf population would be devastating to social structures of wolf packs in the region. Not only would this be inhumane, but it would be greatly detrimental to maintaining sustainable wolf numbers in the region. The capacity for wolves to survive depends on their social structures, such as experienced parents who can share certain knowledge to young wolves which they may not possess otherwise, and the ability to disperse to other packs which can accept ostracized individuals.

It pains me to imagine the repercussions of this management solution, not only for wolf populations in 16 to rebound after this cull, but for the effects on flora that would arise from damaging "ecology of fear" dynamics that maintain healthy grazing behaviors.

Furthermore, the proposed reduction of the brown bear population is excessive. If brown bears sows fail to raise cubs to maturity, due to killings from bull bears, I'm concerned that such a reduction could make it challenging for the population to rebound once moose populations reach the upper population objective.

Furthermore, the reduction of Black Bears seems unnecessary, given the diet composition of Black Bears, but I am not highly educated in their hunting behaviors in the region discussed.

Investigate, with relative certainty, what proportion of moose calf mortalities are caused by each predator.

If a cull is absolutely necessary, I recommend consulting wolf biologists and brown bear biologists to understand what a sustainable reduction would be. No reduction of these populations should be carried out without confirming, via R Studio projections and specialist consultation, whether or not the populations could handle it. However, the proposed cull is, in my opinion, outrageously excessive. I would recommend capping such a reduction at 20%. Otherwise, relocation could be a beneficial solution.

I reassert my opposition to this proposal, and I sincerely hope the department heeds these concerns.

Best,

Gabriel Finley

On behalf of our hundreds of Alaska members and FoA's longtime support for protecting wolves and bears, we oppose the Alaska Department of Fish and Game's reprehensible, dark age-like Proposal 75.

We oppose predator control methods that are solely designed to make moose and caribou hunting more convenient. The so-called "population reduction objective" is ridiculous, unscientific and immoral—it's intended to entertain hunters by bolstering moose populations—making shooting them more convenient.

The proposal will restart the aerial gunning of wolves and bears in Unit 16—near Denali and Lake Clark National Parks—two international destinations for wildlife watchers. It intends to reduce wolf populations by 73-80%, and objectionable goal.

Furthermore, a four-decades long study on the effect of wolf and bear killing on moose hunting concluded in 2022 with the determination that predator control did not improve moose hunting. So not only is the proposal ridiculous, but it's also misguided.

This method would dramatically lower the populations of these animals to levels that would lead to a bust in the ecosystem. This is extremely dangerous and is not in the best interests of the animals. It isn't even in the best interest of the local communities since it will not create revenue to local areas via hunting tags.

I strongly oppose Measure 75 to "manage" wildlife in Unit 16 by Lake Clark National Park. As a former Alaskan citizen, I am appalled at the overreach of predator "control" that this plan suggests as necessary to increase ungulate populations. My assumption is that the rationale for such action is related to increasing revenue for hunting those "saved" ungulates, Please review the numerous studies that demonstrate the benefit of predators. However, the bottom line of my opposition is larger. The fact is that the species you are proposing to manage by killing many of them are sentient beings who value their lives as much as we humans, who feel compelled to control them. They are intelligent, charismatic individuals and families that have difficult, rich lives of their own. Their species have just as much right to survival as humans do, and the manner in which Fish and Game functions is disgraceful: "regulation" eclipsing common decency and respect for bears and wolves, and nature in general! If ungulates become scarce, nature will regulate itself. Wolves and bears control their own breeding if there is scarce food available. Man has chosen to decide the future of all species, and usually acts in their own interests, rather than concern for the species involved. Whatever ones' beliefs, the fact exists that human are a PART of nature, not separate and somehow above the natural world. WE CAN BE A FAILED SPECIES AS WELL, and this type of interference that is so popular in the agencies, and humans in general is accelerating that prospect. You expound your love for wilderness and wildlife. So quit talking the talk and start walking the walk!

I appreciate the opportunity to address the board today.

The Alaska Department of Fish and Game (ADFG) has proposed increasing predator control measures to boost ungulate populations. However, rather than opting to gradually increase bear and wolf hunting quotas—which could directly benefit local economies and provide additional funding to wildlife agencies—ADFG is seeking authorization for random aerial shooting of bears and wolves using state-owned aircraft. This approach disregards the potential for responsible management through regulated hunting tags and fails to guard against the risks of a boom-and-bust cycle in wildlife populations.

This is not conservation. This decision is neither considerate of local economies nor our natural resources. It represents lazy, irresponsible wildlife management in an area that requires thoughtful stewardship and far greater care.

Unit 16 shares its southern border with Lake Clark National Park, one of Earth's few remaining pristine brown bear habitats. This population is already under significant threat from multiple pressures, including the destructive development of the Johnson Tract Mine, declining silver salmon runs, and the ongoing risk of further salmon population collapse. Adopting a policy like this accelerates the risks to a fragile ecosystem and undermines the core principles of wildlife management.

We stand to lose so much—economically, ecologically, and ethically.

For these reasons, I strongly oppose Proposal 75 and urge the Board of Game to reject it. Thoughtful, sustainable, and scientifically grounded wildlife management must be the path forward. Thank you.

Lack of Transparency and Oversight: Proposal 75 grants broad, unchecked powers to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game with no clear limits, oversight, or public accountability—setting the stage for widespread and indiscriminate killing.

I Oppose Proposal 75, which would authorize mass predator slaughter in Unit 16 using state-owned aircraft for aerial shooting of black bears and wolves. This is an outdated and unsustainable approach to wildlife management that threatens one of the world's last pristine ecosystems. Relying on mass predator killing, such as aerial shootings, ignores decades of scientific evidence about the importance of predators in maintaining ecological balance. Healthy ecosystems thrive when keystone species like wolves and bears are allowed to fulfill their natural roles.

Unit 16 borders Lake Clark National Park that is home to one of Earth's last pristine brown bear habitats. These bears already face threats from mining developments, collapsing salmon runs, and habitat loss. We stand to lose a keystone species and devastate the natural balance that sustains this region. Instead of embracing modern, science-based wildlife management that prioritizes coexistence and ecosystem health, Alaska Department of Fish and Game is opting for indiscriminate aerial slaughter of predators. This isn't conservation, it's a destructive, outdated approach that ignores the critical role predators play in maintaining balance and biodiversity. Drastic reductions could lead to cascading negative effects on the environment. Wildlife should be valued for their intrinsic worth and ecological importance, not as obstacles to be eliminated.

Prop 16.

Animals have every right to be here. Without them, our ecosystem would fall apart. Culling them down to dwindling numbers is not only cruel and inhumane, it is illogical. Removing predators creates an abundance of smaller animals, which wipes out the foliage, causing problems like flooding, drought, and not enough food for the small animals.

A perfect example is how returning the wolves to Yellowstone helped the ecosystem flourish, down to the riverbeds.

Do not kill off predators. Leave nature be.

No to prop 75. The culling of wildlife is not an effective population management tool when looked at from the broader ecosystem perspective. Bears provide a vital role to their natural habitat and are a natural wonder for wildlife tourism. Wildlife tourism is an economic engine for Alaska, and the state could suffer without it. Spend the proposed prop 75 budget on wildlife research and protection of habitats.

In opposition to Proposal 75:

Inhumane and Unethical Methods: Aerial shooting and lethal removal are cruel, indiscriminate, and cause unnecessary suffering to wildlife. History has shown these methods escalate quickly without proper oversight.

Threat to Ecosystem Balance: Wolves and bears play vital ecological roles by regulating prey populations. Removing these predators destabilizes ecosystems, threatening biodiversity and long-term environmental health.

Lack of Transparency and Oversight: Proposal 75 grants broad, unchecked powers to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game with no clear limits, oversight, or public accountability—setting the stage for widespread and indiscriminate killing.

Conservation and Economic Risks: Healthy predator populations are vital for Alaska's wilderness and tourism economy. Lethal predator control undermines these populations, harms conservation efforts, and threatens wildlife-based economic opportunities.

Together, we can protect our wildlife and ecosystems.

I oppose proposal 75 for the following reasons:

There is no need for predator management because the management (population and harvest) goals for moose are already being met according to ADFG surveys;

Aerial killing of wolves has no bearing on the goals of managing populations for the benefit of the people and state.

I am writing in opposition to Proposal 75, killing 100 wolves per year in Game Unit 16.

The now 20 year old management plan is not supported by science; no proof that killing a large percentage of the wold population will help moose. The moose population has declined in part due to heavy snow- more heavy wet snow years should be anticipated due to climate change- these will likely be tough on wolves as well. More importantly these policies represent only consumptive use of moose: not the many tourists who want to see moose in the wild.

Dear Members of the Alaska Board of Game,

I strongly oppose Amendment 75 and urge the Board to reject any proposals that allow hunting near state parks. These parks are vital sanctuaries for Alaska's incredible wildlife and play a critical role in maintaining the delicate balance of our ecosystems. Predators like wolves and bears are essential for controlling prey populations and preserving the health of our natural landscapes. Allowing hunting in or near these protected areas risks disrupting this balance, leading to long-term ecological harm.

State parks are not just havens for wildlife—they are places of peace and wonder for families, researchers, and visitors alike. Hunting activities near these areas threaten both the safety of park-goers and the integrity of the ecosystems we hold so dear. I believe we have a responsibility to protect these unique spaces, ensuring they remain pristine and thriving for future generations to experience and cherish. Please, let us prioritize conservation and stewardship over short-term gain.

Sincerely,

Goda

Proposal 75...having brown bear hunting in and around king salmon area is the wrong thing to do..it interferes with the balance of nature the brown bear is there to do. I'd highly suggest for all proposals that include Ariel hunting of brown and black bear to be discouraged..and id target wolf and coyote...they are the main predators on moose and caribou... I've lived in unit 13 for 30 years and the wolf and coyote packs are way over what is manageable. The deep snow helps them to kill healthy moose and caribou bogged down in snow...they bite the hamstrings...disable them..kill them and don't even eat the carcass...I've seen it to much...then a bear comes along..cleans up the carcass in late spring and is blamed for the kill. Wolf and coyote push out many pups twice a year..bears have 1-4 coy every FOUR years...ITS NOT BEAR TO BLAME...ITS WOLF AND PACKS OF COYOTES. THANKYOU

I strongly oppose Proposal 75 seeking to add ADFG removal of wolves, brown bears, and black bears to Unit 16 Intensive Management Plan. This would allow department employees to conduct aerial, land and shoot, or ground-based killing of wolves and black bears and brown bears using state-owned, privately-owned, or chartered equipment, including helicopters, under AS 16.05.783. The state wants to decrease the wolf population in this are to 35-55 wolves and claim that 100 wolves must be killed annually, for several years, in order to reach this minimum. ADFG claims that there's low interest from hunters because a majority of the wolves in Unit 16 have lice (which results in poor pelt quality) and low interest from pilots because they can participate in same day airborne hunting in other units. Therefore, ADFG argues that they may need to kill wolves because there's declining interest from the general public.

Wolves and bears were here before us, they're a VITAL part of the ecosystem. With them it's been shown (look at wisconsin study on this) deer do less damage to creeks and rivers (less standing in them out in the open for prolonged periods of time), healthier wildlife, less disease in other wild life and a more balanced ecosystem. While this may not be applicable WI saved 19 million in car accidents related to deer, after reintroducing wolves. Furthermore to aerially/hunt them down is ridiculous. We have some of the most remote and untouched land in Alaska. Leave it that way. They belong here. Denali is one of if not the most remote national park in our great country, LEAVE THEM ALONE!!! Proposal 75 is absolutely sickening and when we read it all we can picture is the eventual destruction and dismantling of everything we and so many others love about Alaska. We understand that at times population control may be necessary in some area (however that is still all human induced) but the culling numbers being discussed in the proposal are unthinkable. Numbers like 60 to 80% of wolves and bears is an absolute massacre. At what point do you start affecting their gene pool by eliminating so many individuals? So many species in this world are already threatened, why do we as humans not seek better alternatives to protect ecosystems in the long term? How is gunning down innocent animals from helicopters the only answer? Where does the insanity stop? What's next.....fly over Brooks Falls and gun down brown bears while they're busy catching dinner? Proposal 75 - OPPOSE

I am writing to demand leadership at a conversational level; experience and interest in our national and international values for wilderness and wild animals. The IM objectives for Unit 16 are absolutely unacceptable and exhibit a profound and deeply concerning lack of leadership in conservation.

As I write this, the leading European conservation organization, "Rewilding Europe," is introducing WILD PREDATORS onto exploited agricultural lands as a means of regenerating the landscape and protecting local communities from the unrelenting climate crisis (as well as raising the bar on tourism).

Wild predators like bears and wolves are essential to the health of our natural ecosystems which are essential to the health of our lives.

We want them protected. Not dead. We want our knowledge of today's need to heighten the protection for wild animals to be put immediately into place. Not the opposite. The public deeply opposes proposal 75.

Represent us and protect bears and wolves from the poverty of soulless policy making.

Unit 16 shares its southern border with Lake Clark National Park, one of the last pristine brown bear habitats left on earth!!! The brown bear population there is already under extreme threat from the devastating development of the Johnson Tract Mine, collapsing silver salmon runs, and the impending threat of continued salmon run decline.

We will not be robbed of another natural wonder. No one can ethically put into place aerial killings (extremely painful) of 60-80% of wild predators. Insanity. However, if you need for some reason to have a reduction in the population of bear or wolves, why don't you license hunters to do excursions and take down the population that way? Dear Board of Game,

I strongly OPPOSE Proposal 75 for the following reasons:

Alaska's predator control programs — aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters — do not work to increase human moose harvest. A 2022 article by ADFG and University of Alaska Fairbanks biologists published in the scientific journal Diversity, found no increase in moose harvests in the years following nearly 40 years of predator control in Southcentral Alaska.

Large carnivore management in Alaska is a reversion to outdated management concepts and occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations, or identify causal relationships between predator control and prey population dynamics. Large carnivore management in Alaska should be based on rigorous science including the status and trends of carnivore populations - this program does not meet those standards. Read more in the 2019 article, Large carnivores under assault in Alaska, which was authored by three Alaska state and federal wildlife biologists. And meanwhile, we are at the end of 2024.

The proposed aerial gunning program borders some of the most iconic wildlife viewing areas in the world. 'Predator control' is not popular with the general public! The State's reputation as a responsible wildlife manager is rightfully beginning to sour after aerially gunning down nearly 200 bears in southwestern Alaska, not to mention the many atrocities committed against the wolves. The methodologies used are deplorable! Authorizing this program on such loose and un-studied biological grounds bruises Alaska's image and erodes public faith in the Board of Game to make sustainable decisions.

By ADFG's own admission: "Adoption of this proposal would result in significant costs to the department if department staff conduct control activities" (ADFG comments on Prop 75, Page 224). The Intensive Management program against bears and wolves a few hundred miles west cost $231,000 in 2022 and $612,000 in 2023 (page 14, 2024 annual report to Board of Game) Predator control as a whole has accounted for ~$2.5 million in lost federal funding, as Pitman Roberts funds cannot be used for Intensive management. At a time when ADFG has almost no funding for non-game programs and the State is struggling for cash, it is unwise to dedicate another quarter million dollars each year to predator control programs that have yet to be deemed effective yet are outright cruel.

Please stop this senseless killing and develop smarter and more sensible ways without brutalizing America's beloved carnivores!

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Claudia Hasenhuttl

I vehemently oppose Proposition 75. This proposal rests on weak and poorly studied biological reasoning for hunting these species, lacking the research and expertise of wildlife biologists. This could damage Alaska's image and deteriorate public trust in the Board of Game to make sustainable decisions. Alaska is our last frontier. What makes it so unique and iconic is the wildlife that inhabits it. Drastically reducing bear and wolf populations harms the ecosystem and all who live within it.

Additionally, I strongly support proposition 18. Returning hunting season to its previous lengths and establishing 1 bear bag limit every four years by drawing permit only will help preserve and reestablish the brown bear populations of the Katmai Preserve, keeping the population strong for the ecosystem and supporting the long term interests of all interested human parties (including bear viewing and hunters)

Hello all,

I oppose Proposal 75-aerial gunning outside of Denali-OPPOSE.

I cannot support a plan which is not based upon solid science. The current “management” of Wolves, Brown & Black Bears is outdated and there are no scientifically driven monitoring programs in place to evaluate how severely these apex species will suffer if this proposal were to advance.

The studies which are scientifically driven show that these extremely cruel anti-predator killings en masse do not increase moose hunter success.

Habitat encroachment and development in key Brown Bear territory is happening at an alarming rate, these bears and the blank bears need our help not be gunned down.

How you would ever think that gunning down Wolves & Bears in unit 16 outside of Denali NP &

Clark NP & Preserve is even distantly an act of conservation when it is wrong thinking. This is a corridor for dispersals & migrations and should be protected. When you aim to kill 73-80% of an essential and important species, the Wolf, you're removing an animal unaffected by CWD chronic wasting disease and Wolves will help curb the spread by dispersing the herds and keeping them healthier by their very presence.

Please do not advance this proposal & instead embrace the extraordinary wildlife who live in Alaska.

Don't the tribes oppose this proposal too?

Comment:

I oppose using aerial methods to eradicate predators in proposal 75. This is a poor way of dealing with decreasing numbers of moose. Multiple other proposals are decreasing the take or number of specific moose taken due ultimately to tough winters and decades of over harvesting.

The moose need to be allowed to recover and the only way to do that is to reduce the number of hunters (who can access even the most remote areas with airplanes and have been able to for 50 plus years).

Killing wolves will not increase moose numbers. Maybe a little but it won't make a difference. The only effective way to increase the moose population is to dial back the number we are allowing to be hunted each year. Each year these numbers get lower, and when combined with tough winters with lots of snow and energy required to forage and survive, the population is not winning.

If you want to kill more wolves, use them as a resource and open them up to more hunting and allow people to utilize them as a resource, rather than just slaughtering them for a helicopter and leaving them.

I work in the western Alaska unit where over a hundred bears and wolves were killed from a helicopter to "allow the caribou to recover". That's not going to work. Additionally the tourists and people we fly in to experience Alaska consequently see less wildlife, and people want to see bears. Considering that, I think there are many intangible consequences of predator control that do not put weight the "possible" (not guaranteed) result.

It's very important not to look past the fact that the Anchorage bowl hold the largest population in the state, with more seaplanes than anywhere in the world. The moose number are down because people can access, relatively easily, most nooks and crannies of the Anchorage bowl. Numbers are low because there are too many people that all want a moose and there are plenty of people who abuse that privilege when nobody is looking. That's just human nature and survival in a very expensive world.

I am writing to express serious concerns about Proposition 75 and its proposal to expand predator control in Alaska. This measure represents a misguided approach to wildlife management that history and science have repeatedly shown to be ineffective and harmful.

Predator control efforts targeting bears and wolves have consistently failed to deliver meaningful or lasting benefits for prey populations like moose and caribou. Past programs have shown little success because they fail to account for the complexity of natural ecosystems, which cannot be managed through simple reductions in predator numbers.

Additionally, bears play an essential role in maintaining ecological balance. By dispersing seeds, aerating soil, and regulating prey populations, they contribute to the health and resilience of entire ecosystems. Removing too many bears risks destabilizing these systems, causing ripple effects that harm other wildlife and the broader environment.

Beyond the ecological concerns, predator control programs come at a significant financial cost with little accountability. Millions of dollars have been spent on similar efforts in the past, yet there's scant evidence of their success. Proposition 75 risks repeating these expensive failures, draining funds that could be better invested in habitat restoration or scientific research—proven methods for supporting wildlife populations.

Proposition 75 is a shortsighted and counterproductive policy. Alaska needs forward-thinking solutions grounded in science, not outdated tactics that disregard past failures. I urge you to reject Proposition 75 and advocate for more effective, sustainable approaches to wildlife management.

I'm shocked and horrified at Prop 75. What kind of barbaric, wasteful plan is this? I cannot believe it got far enough to be voted on.

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Proposal 75.

The use of aerial shooting as a means to manage predator populations is deeply concerning for several reasons. This method not only bypasses opportunities for economic growth through increased predator hunting tag allocations but also undermines the tradition of ethical and sustainable hunting. Allowing hunters to harvest predators provides sustenance for families and ensures that the animals are used purposefully, rather than being killed with their meat left to waste.

Additionally, aerial shooting poses significant risks of disrupting predator population dynamics. Targeting the wrong segments of the population, particularly females, could result in long-lasting damage. For example, brown bears reproduce slowly, with one to four cubs born every two to four years, and wolves have only one litter annually. Overharvesting predators, as outlined in the proposal (73–80% reduction for wolves, 60–80% for black bears, and 60% for brown bears), could lead to severe biodiversity loss in Alaska and destabilize ecosystems for decades.

History provides a clear lesson. When wolves were eliminated from Yellowstone National Park in the 1920s, elk populations surged, leading to overgrazing and significant ecological damage. Only with the reintroduction of wolves in the 1990s did a natural balance return. Removing such a significant proportion of Alaska’s keystone predator populations could result in similar ecological harm, including unchecked growth of the caribou population, overgrazing, and long-term impacts on flora and fauna.

To improve caribou survival and support their population rebound, aerial culling is not the answer. A more effective and sustainable approach would involve decreasing human harvests of caribou while increasing hunting opportunities for predators through regulated hunting tags. This strategy would ensure balanced conservation efforts while maintaining Alaska’s natural biodiversity.

Conservation requires thoughtful, long-term planning. The proposed measures fail to consider the far-reaching ecological consequences and set a dangerous precedent for wildlife management. I urge you to reconsider this approach and explore alternatives that prioritize balance, sustainability, and ethical practices.

Thank you for your attention to this critical issue.

Sincerely,

Adhara Hodgson

I oppose Proposal 75 for the Intensive Management (IM) Plan for Moose in Unit 16 which would give Alaska Department of Fish and Game (ADFG) authorization to kill wolves, brown bears, and black bears with the use of aircraft, including helicopters, to achieve reduction goals. This would be an addition to the current public permitting allowing use of the same techniques.

I am concerned that the beautiful wolves, black bears and brown bears which I was privileged to see as a visitor to the amazing State of Alaska would be destroyed due to policies that were not based on solid information.

Control of predators is a wildlife management tool that in some circumstances may be appropriate to restore or prevent the extinction of rare or threatened species, small populations, and insular populations such as those on islands. In some placed-based situations around communities, predator reduction may be needed to control disease (e.g., rabies) or ameliorate negative human-wildlife conflict.

However, my concerns regarding adding ADFG personnel to IM efforts to reduce wolf and potentially black and brown bear populations in Alaska include the following:

- IM population and harvest objectives have not been reassessed since their inception, as recommended by the Alaska Chapter of The Wildlife Society.

- ADFG and the Board of Game (BOG) have neither established a standard to determine if the “prey population is feasibly achievable utilizing recognized and prudent active management techniques,” nor a process to disapprove IM action if it is likely to be “ineffective, based on scientific information.”
- Large carnivore management in Alaska occurs without effective monitoring programs designed to scientifically evaluate impacts on predator populations or identify causal relationships between predator control and pre-population dynamics. In addition, some outdated methods (e.g., snaring of bears and wolves, “denning” of wolf pups) used in Predator Control Areas continue to be inhumane.
- Predator control has effectively become the default mechanism used to accomplish the IM law’s desired outcome of sustaining or increasing ungulate harvest.
- There is large scale variation in native ungulate populations that occurs because of wildfire events and cyclic insect defoliation, as well as the cascading effects of rapid climate change. The concept of “sustained yield” as currently defined in AS 16.05.255(k)(5) is an artificial construct that does not appropriately consider these natural population variations.
- Studies have shown that Alaska’s predator control programs — aimed at boosting moose, caribou, and deer populations for hunters — do not increase human moose harvest.

In an effort to find an appropriate balance between natural predators such as wolves, brown and black bears and Alaska’s ungulate population, I suggest the following:

1. Ensure that ungulate population and predator harvest objectives are reasonable, attainable, and backed by data; that the duration and geographic scale of proposed IM is consistent with the population objectives; that ADFG’s protocols are followed and monitored; and that all alternative means of enhancing ungulate populations are first considered before invoking predator control.
2. Recommend that BOG work to ensure that all methods of predator control are humane.
3. Recommend that federal agencies manage wildlife on federal lands for purposes that are consistent with national legislation.

As an annual PT resident of Alaska and outdoor advocate I write to strongly oppose Prop 75. After learning of the cruel and insane treatment of bear in Lake Clark last year it is shocking to hear that even more cruel plans are being proposed for this area. The issue this plan attempts to address could be addressed in ways that better serve Alaskans, such as increasing hunting permits for these animals. This prop is lazy management of land and wildlife this agency exists to protect,
