

Please stop the unfounded culling of Alaskan wild bears. Did you know that many bears are at a risk of inbreeding due to their very small numbers? That means, at this rate of replacement and negative growth, there will be a point of no return. That mean no more bears. For future generations to see the might and the wonders of wildlife, there should be a healthy population of wildlife to inspire curiosity. There used to be significantly more of everything. More life in the world. The colors and magic of our planet is fading. The world I read from books and magazines as a child no longer exists. Let us not put out the flames of life on earth.
