

The State's plan to kill predators must be stopped because it is controversial at best. Taxpayers' money is not to be spent on unethical programs. The strategy doesn't seem to help anything; instead, it hurts our bears and wolves. The Dept. of Fish & Game must, too, live by its own standards of looking after our wildlife. Management means not messing things up further so let nature sort itself out. Who are we to decide who deserves to die and who to live?
